Finds Loopholes in Arms Embargo Act He Signed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 [Special].—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, is prepared to go the limit of law and perhaps farther to swing the power and resources of the United States to the side of the British and French empires if war comes to Europe.

If he should be unsuccessful in further efforts to procure repeal of the arms provision of the neutrality act, which he signed in 1935 and again in 1937, he still will be enabled by certain loopholes in the legislation to temper the application of the embargo to favored belligerents. The loopholes are afforded by the rules and regulations on the export of war supplies that the law commits to the discretion of the executive.

Awaits Reply from Hitler.

This was pointed out today in quarters close to the administration as the President waited vainly at the White House for an answer from Hitler to his appeal for peace. Mr. Roosevelt talked with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and read the dispatches received by the state department on the developments on the European crisis, remarking later that the newspapers knew as much about the situation as anybody does.

The suggestion that the neutrality act may be "interpreted" to permit continued supply of arms and implements of war to Britain and France even if they become involved in war is in line with the record of administration of the law up to date. In the Italo-Ethiopian war Mr. Roosevelt exceeded the law in an effort to stop oil exports to Italy, but when Mussolini barked that he was committing an unfriendly act he beat a hasty retreat. In the Sino-Japanese war the President, in order to aid China and injure Japan, never has applied the neutrality act on the pretext that war between those countries never has been officially declared.

Vast Quantities Undelivered.

If war should break out in Europe at this time there would be immediately at stake the delivery of several hundred million dollars' worth of American airplanes, trucks, and other war equipment now being manufactured for Britain and France. Only about one-third of the amount contracted for has been delivered. Application of the arms embargo upon the outbreak of war would prevent delivery of the remainder unless the rules and regulations should exempt orders previously placed.

Another loophole is provided by Canada. If Canada should remain neutral she could obtain arms in America to supply Britain and France. If she entered the war American war equipment could be turned out by Canadian branches of American factories.

These loopholes are being canvassed because of increasing doubt that the President could procure repeal of the arms embargo even if he were to recall congress into extraordinary session. Democratic leaders admit privately that the current turn of events in Europe is hardening popular sentiment against any modification of the neutrality act to enable the President to take sides in a European war.

To Keep U. S. Out of War.

The neutrality law was passed in 1935 for the purpose of keeping the United States out of involvement in a foreign war, on the theory that the sale of vast quantities of war supplies to a belligerent creates an interest likely to lead the vendor into war on the side of the customers.

The law provided that upon the outbreak of a foreign war the President should proclaim the fact and thereafter it would be unlawful to export "arms, ammunition, and implements of war" to any of the belligerents. The President was required to enumerate the articles constituting arms, ammunition, and implements of war.

A few months after the enactment of the law the President proclaimed a state of war existing between Italy and Ethiopia and applied the arms embargo to all firearms, to artillery weapons, and to ammunition for such arms; grenades, bombs, torpedoes, and

London's Reply Will Be Sent Today; Backs Warsaw.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Europe's guns remain silent. But another perilous week starts tomorrow. Both sides are stalling for time.

While Britain caused another day's delay in exchanges with Hitler, the government here prohibited dealings in a number of foreign securities—except with treasury permission—and ordered all holdings reported within a month.

This action was said to amount practically to conscription of wealth. It is estimated that 15 billion dollars worth of securities will be affected by the order. The securities affected are those whose principal, interest, or dividends are payable in the currencies of the United States of America, France, Argentina, Belgium, Canada, Holland, Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland. Similar measures long have been in effect in Italy and Germany.

[For full details of prohibition order, see financial pages.]

Hope to Reduce Hitler.

One unrevealed factor in the European crisis is the extent to which the British and French empires have decided that this is the best time to eliminate Adolf Hitler as a factor in European politics and also the extent of their power to do so. A bloodless victory for Hitler over Poland would be almost as bad for British and French prestige as would war.

Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson, tomorrow sometime, will fly back to Berlin with the British cabinet's reply to whatever projects Hitler sent to London yesterday with Henderson.

Sources close to the government say that the French and British are both standing up in behalf of the Poles and that the reply Henderson will take back to Berlin will be to the effect that:

FIRST—No concessions not fully acceptable to Poland can be considered;

SECOND—A new atmosphere, to be brought about by easing armed tension for a long period, is essential before any negotiations can be opened;

THIRD—An international guarantee of any agreement reached.

5 Power Talks a Possibility.

At the same time there are persistent reports that a deal has been framed in the backstage discussions whereby Danzig and the Polish corridor would go back to Germany forthwith.

A five power conference of representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Russia in an effort to reach a peaceful solution was reported as also a possibility. The report gained currency after it was learned that Sir Percy Loraine, British ambassador to Rome, saw Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, tonight and talked with him for half an hour.

To permit further prolonged consultations with Paris and Warsaw—perhaps also with Berlin, in view of the fact that a mysterious messenger from Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, arrived in London by plane tonight—the cabinet meeting summoned for 10:30 o'clock this morning was postponed until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Then the cabinet met for two hours in a session again attended by Henderson.

Final Draft Today.

The cabinet will approve the final form of its answer at a meeting at noon tomorrow. A summary of Hitler's proposals to Henderson, together with an outline of the British reply, is expected to be published.

British spokesmen said that if an answer is received from Hitler on Tuesday parliament would be summoned on Wednesday and Britain's rejoinder would be made in a speech by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. After today's cabinet meeting Chamberlain went to see King George VI. The king earlier had joined special prayers for peace in Westminster Abbey.

Sensational news came from Dublin tonight to the effect that should hostilities break out Ireland would be neutral. Prime Minister Eamon

Poland Considers Mediation Only Avenue Open to Peace

WARSAW, Aug. 28 [Monday], (AP).—Authoritative Polish circles early today believed mediation by the United States, or some other equally disinterested third power, is the only remaining chance to avoid European war. This conviction was crystallized as Warsaw heard from Paris that Adolf Hitler had refused direct negotiation with Poland for a peaceful solution of Danzig's status.

The foreign office declined any comment on the ground that no official information on the final result of the London-Paris-Berlin diplomatic exchanges had been received. Announcement that Hitler openly demanded the Polish corridor, for the first time, as well as Danzig, reached Warsaw too late for official comment.

Roosevelt Plan Reviewed.

In the peace pleas to Hitler and President Ignace Moscicki, direct negotiation, conciliation or arbitration were urged by President Roosevelt for settling the Danzig dispute. Polish foreign policy has opposed arbitration, considering it a diplomatic gamble in which Poland has everything to lose and little to gain.

Hitler's reported refusal to negotiate directly, Polish officials suggested, seemingly leaves only mediation as an alternative to war.

Authoritative Polish circles expressed no surprise at Hitler's reported rejection of direct negotiation proposals, as Poland's own efforts to deal directly with Germany in the past have failed.

One Door Still Open.

High Polish circles hinted that the door to a peaceful solution remains open, referring inquiries concerning Poland's position to President Moscicki's message to President Roosevelt. While emphasizing that Poland always preferred direct negotiations as a means of settling questions with other nations, Polish authorities pointed out that Moscicki's message said:

"We consider likewise the method of conciliation through a third party, as disinterested and as impartial as your excellency, to be a just and equitable method in the solution of controversies arising between nations."

No authoritative Pole, however, directly suggested Roosevelt as mediator, nor hinted at what other statesmen would be considered here as "disinterested and as impartial" as Roosevelt.

Most officials preferred to withhold all comment until after British Ambassador Nevile Henderson submits Britain's last word on the question to Chancellor Hitler.

Must Be Peace with Honor.

There was unanimous agreement, however, among Polish spokesmen that as much as Poland would like to remain at peace, it would have to be an honorable and just peace fully recognizing Poland's equality and national integrity.

The pro-government newspaper Express Poranny, reflecting popular opinion, declared "It depends on Germany whether tomorrow's sun will rise on blood."

As insurance against the menace of war, Poland continued to put finishing touches to its comprehensive defense plans, including further strengthening of frontier points facing Germany and strategic military bases. No official figures have been made public, but it is estimated a minimum of 1,000,000 men are under arms and in position for action, with more reserves becoming available daily.

A new "incident" was reported by the official Polish news agency which announced the Polish consulate at

War Bulletins

PARIS, Aug. 28 (Monday) (AP).—Premier Daladier drew up a second letter to Adolf Hitler today in an effort to dissuade the German Fuehrer from going to war and keep the way open for peaceful negotiations. The French government simultaneously extended its preparedness for war with publication of a decree, effective today, applying censorship to news and photographs. The decree said all printed publications, radio broadcasts, and newsreels must be submitted to the newly formed general information service for approval.

Persons close to Daladier said his second letter would not alter France's firm stand in support of Poland, but would undertake to convince Hitler of the "error of his ways."

The general staff intends to conserve its armies as much as possible for the supreme engagements along this defense line rather than allow them to be trapped in indefensible terrain.

FUEHRER URGES FRANCE TO KEEP OUT OF CONFLICT

Insists He Must Have Corridor and Correct Other Portions of Eastern Frontier.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 28 (Monday).—Germany must have Danzig, the Polish corridor, and various sections of Poland along the border. Otherwise there will be war. These were the declarations of Adolf Hitler in a letter he sent to Premier Edouard Daladier of France yesterday which was made public today.

"For a nation with honor it is impossible to relinquish a population of 2,000,000 of its compatriots at its border," the letter said. "The Macedonian conditions at the eastern borders of Germany must cease."

The Fuehrer used the word Macedonian as a synonym for terroristic conditions which Nazis allege Poland has imposed among Germans on the Polish side of the German-Polish border.

Hitler was angry because Daladier, in a statement to the press yesterday, declared that Hitler had rejected Daladier's offer to "work for arbitration and reconciliation" in the Polish-German conflict.

Makes Reply Public.

The Nazi leader thereupon decided to publish the text of Daladier's letter to Hitler and Hitler's reply to him. The reply, which was sent to Paris by air courier yesterday—at the same time a mysterious air courier was proceeding to London—was given to the foreign press here at a dramatic meeting at 1 a. m. today.

When the couriers left Berlin officials said they carried to the governments of France and England Hitler's last terms for appeasement.

"The whole matter is up to England. Germany now awaits England's reply to Hitler's suggestion," officials told foreign interviewers. They awaited the return of Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson today with Britian's reply.

Threatens End of Poland.

Hitler's letter to Daladier revealed officially for the first time his full demands on Poland. He talked openly of war as he urged France in flowing language not to be trapped into fighting to save Poland. He blamed England for Polish intransigeance.

"I made an offer to the Polish government," the letter said. "It staggered the German people. Nobody but myself could dare make such an offer and therefore it could be made only once."

If Poland fails to give in, the letter added, "it will have to bear the worst consequences, because one way or the other the Polish state would be lost.

Impossible to Persuade Poland.

"I see no way of persuading Poland, which feels herself unassailable now that she enjoys the protection of her guarantees, to accept a peaceful solution.

"I should, however, despair of an honorable future for my people if we were not determined under such circumstances to solve the problem in one way or another."

Hitler told the French premier that if over the present crisis "our two countries should be destined to meet again on the field of battle I shall be leading my people in a fight to rectify a wrong, whereas others will be fighting to preserve that wrong."

Hitler said he shared "misgivings" expressed by Daladier in his letter to the Fuehrer over another war, and declared that he had hoped to prevent such an eventuality by attempting to "clear away" all possible inflammable material between the two countries which might "disturb the French people."

Seeks to See Ambassador.

He reasserted that no questions separated the French and German people since the Saar territory was returned to the reich in 1935. The entire letter was a plea for France to stay out of Germany's quarrel with Poland.

Hitler was in session with his advisers through midnight. Early this morning it was asserted that Air Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering had asked the Polish ambassador, Josef Lipski, to call on him, because Lipski refuses to go to the German chancellery, remembering that the German summons to Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria, and President Emil Hacha of Czecho-Slovakia

Hitler's Letter

BERLIN, Aug. 28 [Monday] (AP).—The letter that Adolf Hitler wrote Edouard Daladier, premier of France, is dated Berlin, Aug. 27, and reads as follows in English translation:

"My dear minister-president:

"I understand the misgiving to which you give expression.

"I, too, have never overlooked the grave responsibilities which are imposed upon those who are in charge of the fate of nations.

"As an old front fighter, I, like yourself, know the horrors of war. Guided by this attitude and experience I have tried honestly to remove all matters that might cause conflict between our two peoples.

"I have quite frankly given one assurance to the French people, namely that the return of the Saar would constitute the precondition for this.

Western Frontier Fixed.

"After its return I immediately and solemnly pronounced my renunciation of any further claims that might concern France. The German people approved of this, my attitude.

"As you could judge for yourself during your last visit here, the German people, in the knowledge of its own behavior, held and holds no ill feelings, much less hatred, for its one time brave opponent.

"On the contrary, the pacification of our western frontier led to an increasing sympathy. Certainly, as far as the German people are concerned, a sympathy which on many occasions showed itself in a really demonstrative way.

"The construction of the western fortifications, which swallowed and still swallows many millions [of marks] at the same time constituted for Germany a document of acceptance and fixation of the final frontiers of the reich.

Bloodless Course Defended.

"In doing so, the German people have renounced two provinces which once belonged to the German reich, later were conquered again at the cost of much blood, and finally were defended with even more blood.

"I believed that by this renunciation and this attitude every conceivable source of conflict between our two peoples had been done away with which might lead to a repetition of the tragedy of 1914-1918.

"This voluntary limitation of the German claims to life in the west can, however, not be interpreted as an acceptance of all other phases of the Versailles dictate [treaty].

"I have really tried, year after year, to achieve the revision of at least the most impossible and unbearable provisions of this dictate by way of negotiation. This was impossible.

"That the revision had to come was known and clear to a greater number of sensible men among all nations. Whatever one may say against my method, whatever one believes one should criticize about it, it must not be overlooked or denied that it became possible for me without new bloodshed, not only to find solutions satisfactory in many cases to Germany, but that by the method meant the end of independence for their countries.

Despite the ambassador's aloofness, the impression persisted in diplomatic quarters that Germany and Poland are negotiating unofficially. Both Poles and Germans, however, refuse to confirm the report. The few Poles who have remained in Berlin are in contact with German officials, evidently with the knowledge of their government.

Addresses Reichstag Members.

Yesterday Hitler addressed a secret assembly of several hundred of the 800 members of the reichstag. They met in the Hall of Ambassadors of the chancellery. Afterward a communique said:

"The deputies gave the Fuehrer a stormy ovation following his outline of the seriousness of the hour."

The propaganda ministry minimized the importance of the session and said it did not qualify as an official sitting of the reichstag. Rumors persisted that the reichstag members will have to meet again within the next twenty-four hours.

Usually reliable sources said Hitler told the reichstag members that Germany would make no concessions, insisting that "everything in the east which was German becomes German again."

Outlines His Course.

He outlined his version of the negotiations with the Poles and at the same time assured his followers that all possibilities of coming to terms with France, England, and Poland without a war were being exhausted, but if Germany does not get what he deems is her right he would not hesitate to fight.

Foreign military attachés in Berlin were requested by the Berlin government last night to remain in Berlin and not leave the city. Embassies and legations protested because they saw in this measure a violation of international agreements allowing freedom of movement to foreign nationals.

Meantime, general mobilization proceeded in Germany in preparation for the eventuality of a possible war over German-Polish dispute.

Train Service Curtailed.

Since noon yesterday no German trains had crossed the borders of other countries. Air passenger service was canceled.

Private automobiles were requisitioned and driven eastward in long columns. Food and clothing ration cards were distributed and restaurant menus were ordered curtailed.

Tension in general among Germans seemed to be greater. The official German news agency, DNB, reported frequent clashes on the Polish-Slovak border, especially in the Cadca region. The report said Polish border troops attacked Fascist Hlinka guards repeatedly.

Polish soldiers also were reported to have fired out of a train running parallel with the frontier at Surcincec. DNB reported no casualties, however. All communication with Poland was cut off along the Slovak frontier.

'A POLISH FATHER TELLS SON: 'IT'S WAR'; KILLS SELF

John Pluska, 2229 North Seeley avenue, has watched anxiously the last few days the fate of his native country, Poland. Last night Pluska, who is 50 years old, and his eldest son, Edward, 26, were talking over the international situation.

"Well, son, it looks like Poland's in for a war," said the father gloomily.

A moment later there came a gunshot from the bathroom, then another. Edward, who had walked out on the front porch, hurried in and found his father shot to death. An automatic pistol and a small revolver were near the body. Police believe the elder Pluska shot himself first with the pistol, which jammed, then used the revolver to fire a bullet into his head.

Text of Hitler's Letter

of my procedure I relieved the statesmen of other nations of the obligation, frequently impossible for them, of having to defend this revision before their own peoples.

Revision Called Inevitable.

"For, your excellency will have to admit one thing to me, the revision had to come. The Versailles dictate was unbearable. No Frenchman with honor, and yourself included, Herr Daladier, would have acted differently from myself in a similar position.

"In this sense I have then tried to remove from the world the most irrational provisions of the Versailles dictate.

"I have made an offer to the Polish government which shocked the German people. Nobody but myself could even dare to go before the public with such an offer. It could therefore be made only once.

"I am deeply convinced that if especially England at that time had, instead of starting a wild campaign against Germany in the press and instead of launching rumors of a German mobilization, had somehow talked the Poles into being reasonable, Europe today and for 25 years could enjoy a condition of deepest peace.

"As things were, however, Polish public opinion was excited by a lie about German aggression. Clear decisions which the situation called for were made difficult for the Polish government. Above all, the government's ability to see the limitations of realistic possibilities was impaired by the guarantee promise which followed.

Polish Persecution Charged.

"The Polish government declined the proposals. Polish public opinion, convinced that England and France would now fight for Poland, began to make demands which one might possibly stigmatize as laughable insanity were they not so tremendously dangerous. At that point an unbearable terror, a physical and economic persecution of the Germans, although they numbered more than a million and a half, began in the regions ceded by the reich.

"I don't want here to speak of the atrocities that occurred. Suffice it to say that Danzig, too, was made increasingly conscious through continuously aggressive acts by Polish officials of the fact that apparently it is irretrievably delivered over to the highhandedness of a power foreign to the national character of the city and its population.

"May I now take the liberty of putting the question to you, Herr Daladier: How would you act as a Frenchman if, through some unhappy issue of a brave struggle, one of your provinces were severed by a corridor occupied by a foreign power; and if a big city, let us say Marseilles, were hindered from belonging to France and if Frenchmen living in this area were persecuted, beaten, and maltreated, yes, murdered in a bestial manner?

No War to Aid Injustice.

"You are a Frenchman, Herr Daladier, and I therefore know how you would act. I am a German, Herr Daladier. Do not doubt my sense of honor nor my consciousness of duty to act exactly like you. If, then, you had the misfortune that is ours, would you then, Herr Daladier, have any doubt that Germany was justified in insisting that the corridor through France remain, that the stolen territory must not be restored and that the return of Marseilles to France be forbidden?

"Certainly I cannot imagine, Herr Daladier, that Germany would fight against you for this reason. For I and all of us have renounced Alsace-Lorraine in order to avoid further bloodshed. Much less would we shed blood in order to maintain an injustice that must needs be as unbearable for you as it would be immaterial to us. I feel exactly as you do about what you write in your letters, Herr Daladier.

"Possibly we, as old front fighters, can best understand each other in a number of fields. I ask you, however, to understand this also: That it is impossible for a nation of honor to renounce the claim of almost two million human beings and to see them maltreated at its own borders. I have therefore set up a clear demand to Poland. Danzig and the corridor must go back to Germany. The Macedonian conditions on our eastern frontier must be removed.

Insists on Solution.

"I see no way of persuading Poland, which feels herself unassailable now that she enjoys the protection of her guarantees, to accept a peaceful solution. I should, however, despair of an honorable future for my people if we were not determined under such circumstances to solve the problem in one way or another.

"If our two countries on that account should be destined to meet again on the field of battle, there would nevertheless be a difference in the motives. I, Herr Daladier, shall be leading my people in a fight to rectify a wrong, whereas the others will be fighting to preserve that wrong.

"That is the more tragic since many important men, also among your own people, have recognized the insanity of the solution then found [at Versailles] and the impossibility of maintaining it lastingly. I am perfectly clear about the serious consequences which such a conflict will entail. I believe, however, the Poles would have to bear the greatest burden; for, regardless of who wins in a war about this question, the Polish state of today will be lost in any way you calculate.

"That our two peoples should now enter a new, bloody war of destruction is painful not only for you but also for me, Herr Daladier. As already observed, I see no possibility for us on our part to exert influence in the direction of reasonableness upon Poland for correcting a situation that is unbearable for the German people and the German reich.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A grave view was taken in France tonight of Adolf Hitler's refusal to negotiate with Poland on a settlement of the Danzig crisis.

The Fuehrer's stand was made known in a communication to Premier Edouard Daladier, who had proposed the German-Polish conference, and was presented to Daladier by the chargé d'affaires of the German embassy here.

France's position is that Germany must negotiate directly with Poland on Nazi claims upon the Polish republic.

Equal Stand Demanded.

The French also maintain that a conference for a general settlement of the crisis can be conducted only in an atmosphere of mutual respect between Germany and Poland, without military pressure.

If that procedure failed to satisfy Hitler, and if he attempted to employ force, France stood prepared to answer similarly with force.

Hitler's answer was the confirmation of an oral reply he made to French Ambassador Robert Coulondre in Berlin last night after receiving Daladier's appeal for the conference.

Hitler's Stand Described.

Daladier's message, revealed in detail for the first time in tonight's communique, was summarized as follows in a statement from the Quai d'Orsay:

"Aug. 25, at 5:30 p. m., M. Coulondre, French ambassador to Germany, responding to a call, was received by the Fuehrer Chancellor Hitler.

"The chief of the German government requested our ambassador to transmit a declaration to the French prime minister.

"In that declaration Mr. Hitler made known that he could no longer tolerate such a situation as existed in Poland and that he would deplore the German blood and French blood to be spilled as a result of measures which he would be led to take to regulate the situation.

Moves for Peace Told.

"M. Daladier, advised by M. Coulondre of this declaration, at once sent to Mr. Hitler a message in which he recalled France's profound attachment to peace as well as her fidelity to her publicly contracted engagements with other nations.

"He recalled also that no Frenchman ever had pressed harder than he himself to establish between the German people and the French people cordial relations and sincere collaboration for the maintenance of the peace of Europe.

"M. Daladier offered his personal guarantee of the disposition shown by Poland for a mutual recourse to methods of free conciliation.

"He affirmed that no man with a heart could understand why a war should start without at least a new direct effort at a peaceful arrangement having been made between Germany and Poland.

"He declared himself ready to do all in his power to make such an effort possible.

"M. Coulondre was received late in the afternoon of Aug. 26 by Chancellor Hitler, who declared that he could not accept the proposition that M. Daladier had suggested.

"This oral response was confirmed today by a written communication which was delivered to the president of the council of ministers by Mr. Brauer, chargé d'affaires of the German embassy in Paris."

Ambassador Bullitt Called.

After studying the text of Hitler's note Daladier called American Ambassador William C. Bullitt to the war ministry for a conference. The purpose of this meeting could not be learned. It was suggested, however, that since Hitler's note as interpreted here constitutes an indirect negative to President Roosevelt's peace message, Mr. Roosevelt may wish to utilize this to pin the blame for a conflict unequivocally on Hitler.

Hitler's refusal to negotiate the dispute was made known by Daladier in a dramatic manner.

Daladier, appearing fatigued after a weary day of conferences with military leaders, French diplomats, and foreign envoys, came to the front of the ministry to give his news to the correspondents. He read the statement in a grave, measured tone. Then he left for his home to rest.

As tension mounted diplomatic contacts between the rival powers became more frequent instead of more rare. Some observers drew from this an optimistic view of the probable outcome. Others contented themselves with the more modest conclusion that there is an obvious reluctance on both sides to fire the first shot—even if this is coupled, as it seems to be, with the determination on both sides to shoot rather than to yield.

Further evidence of this last minute diplomatic activity was seen in visits paid by the Polish ambassador, Julius Lukasiewicz to both Georges Bonnet, French foreign minister, and Daladier, and in the subsequent conference between Daladier and Bonnet. Another symptom was the visit paid to Bonnet and Daladier by Pierre Etienne Flandin, former premier and generally considered to be the leading French exponent of appeasement.

Officials Are Pessimistic.

If, however, all these visits and conferences indicated any break in the storm clouds hanging over the European horizon, there was no indication of it in official circles. The note of pessimism is more evident than ever.

A party of fifty members of families of the United States embassy staff entrained this morning for Dinard in Brittany. Another group of twenty-four left last night. Approximately 100 American women and children arranged for shelter in that remote town.

HITLER'S ENVOY HAS NEW PARLEY WITH MUSSOLINI

Italian Radio Demands Revision of Europe.

ROME, Aug. 27 (AP).—The German ambassador, Hans Georg Viktor von Mackensen, called on Premier Benito Mussolini today with a new message from Adolf Hitler.

Ambassador Von Mackensen.

Authoritative Fascists said Premier Mussolini was pursuing intensive efforts to save peace. The Fascist press made no predictions but there were vague indications in newspapers that Mussolini might be planning personal intervention at the last moment if other attempts at conciliation fail. The press generally presented the situation as extremely grave, but held there was still a possibility of averting a European war.

Message's Contents a Secret.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italy's foreign minister, was present as Von Mackensen conferred with Mussolini. Nothing was revealed here concerning the contents of Hitler's message.

Sir Percy Loraine, British ambassador, talked with Count Ciano for half an hour later in the day. British circles said the meeting was for the purpose of keeping in contact in view of the seriousness of the situation.

Virgino Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, writing in the Voce d' Italia, made it clear that moves of Mussolini to effect a conciliation are based on his formula of "peace with justice."

Ahead of Roosevelt.

"Italy, in full harmony with Germany and with a lively comprehension of her rights and aptitude, has for some time been pursuing intense political and diplomatic activity in the service of peace assured by justice, without waiting for invitations from this side of the ocean or the other," Gayda wrote.

"The proposal expressed by President Roosevelt in his messages to Hitler and the Polish president for direct negotiations between Poland and Germany follow, for example, some distance behind an initiative undertaken by the Italian government and not accepted at Warsaw.

"Even today, on the extreme margin of the crisis, Italian action, in so far as it is able to assist in clarifying and facilitating contacts of ideas and positions, does not rest a single hour."

Italy's Eyes on London.

The eyes of Italians generally were on London, from which they expected the reply of the British cabinet to Hitler to determine the fate of Europe. They also waited avidly for news from Berlin.

As the crisis wore on, some increased nervousness was evident amid the general composure of the Italian people. The seed of hatred against France, sowed by Fascist propaganda in the past year, seemed to be bearing fruit.

"Italy is all set to tackle the French, and Italians will do it with pleasure," many Romans said.

Newspapers warned correspondents not to be misled into thinking that Italy was not fully alive to the gravity of the situation and going ahead with war preparations.

Press Shows Restraint.

The Fascist press generally was most circumspect. While responsibility for the crisis was attributed to Britain, France and Poland, there were no really bitter attacks on these countries.

News favorable to the other side, such as the assurance of Polish Ukrainian leaders that they stood solidly with the Polish government, was published. Newspapers gave prominence to reports from Paris that a shipload of British colonial troops had landed in France.

An Italian propaganda broadcast in English said Europe's problems could not be solved or postponed by the cession of any strip or territory but only by the creation of a whole new European order.

Italy thus placed her own claims beside those of Germany. It has made claims against France for Djibuti, Tunisia and an interest in the Suez canal. Since the conclusion of the German-soviet Russian nonaggression pact, there have been unofficial hints the Fascists might also have their eyes on a slice of the Balkans.

PARIS SEES SIGNS MUSSOLINI MAY ABANDON HITLER

Duce Going Over Head of Foreign Minister.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27. — Official circles here are following with interest reports from Rome that may indicate signs of strain between Premier Benito Mussolini and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, his axis partner. The fact is not lost that Il Duce has personally taken complete command of the Italian foreign office in the present emergency, going over the head of his ardently pro-Nazi son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, the foreign minister.

Pushing aside normal diplomatic procedure, Hitler and Mussolini since Friday have exchanged five personal messages, three from the Fuehrer to Il Duce and two in the opposite direction. This is interesting in view of the fact that the German press declared after Count Ciano's last talk with Hitler in Berchtesgaden that axis harmony was complete and there would be no occasion for a special consultation between the two dictators.

Report Italy Lacks Reserves.

If the estimates of Italy's willingness and ability to fight for Danzig which are circulated in French political circles can be taken at their face value, there still is ground for believing that Mussolini will put on the brakes before the axis machine heads into a general war. According to these statements, Italy has almost no reserve supplies for war. The harvest has been unsatisfactory and the government has made unusually large purchases of Hungarian wheat.

No special anti-aircraft defense measures have been taken in Rome or other cities. No air raid shelters have been constructed and no gas masks have been distributed.

Another report is that army circles are particularly hostile to the idea of Italy being drawn into a war this year. Bitterness over the Nazi-soviet pact is widespread among the Italian legionnaires who fought against bolshevism in Spain. One of them has been quoted: "What would the dead we left behind in Spain think of it?"

Pact Routs French Reds.

The fact that the Nazi-soviet pact has struck a mortal blow to the communist party of France, the last strong communist group in Europe west of Russia, is becoming clearer every day. Mass desertions of the rank and file are reported from all the industrial centers, where the Reds were strongest. In some instances from 50 to 75 per cent of the local party members are quitting.

The government is ruthlessly clamping down on the Red press and individual propagandists. Communist newspapers were seized today at Marseilles, Provins, Bourges, Toulon, and in Paris and its suburbs. They probably will be permanently suppressed. Three Stalinist propagandists were arrested for passing out tracts defending the nonaggression pact. They will be prosecuted.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SETS UP BUREAU FOR WAR CORRESPONDENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27.—The French government today began setting up a central press bureau for American and other foreign correspondents. In case of war it will begin functioning at once, under the direction of Jean Giraudoux, recently named commissioner general of information. The plan is to have the official press bureau, the wartime censorship bureau, and the transmission services united in the same building, a hotel in the Place Vendome near most of the government buildings. Most of the services will be ready in a day or two.

REPORT BORDER SHUT BY NAZIS TO NETHERLANDS

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 27 (AP).—A quiet Sunday gave a rest to Netherlanders' nerves after an anxious week. The cabinet did not meet today as originally planned. It was reported Germans had closed the German-Netherlands frontier with barbed wire except at a few important crossings. Soldiers replaced German customs officers and anti-aircraft guns were placed in position along the border.

Germany Denies Red Pact Will Injure Baltic States

[Copyright; 1939; By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 27.—The German legation at Helsingfors today informed the Finnish news agency that statements in various quarters to the effect that the Russo-German pact was made at the expense of Finland and the Baltic states are unfounded. The announcement, issued as a consequence of persistent rumors of the existence of a secret clause in the Moscow pact detrimental to the Baltic countries, appears in today's newspapers without editorial comment.

BERNARD SHAW WELCOMES NAZI PACT WITH REDS

[Copyright; 1939; By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 28 [Monday].—George Bernard Shaw has taken a hand in the European crisis, saying in a letter to the editor, published in the London Times today, that the Russo-German agreement is "joyful news."

"A week ago Dean Inge, writing in the Evening Standard, guessed Hitler had gone to Canossa," the dramatist wrote. "A few days later the joyful news came that the dean was right and Hitler is under the powerful thumb of Stalin, whose interest in peace is overwhelming.

"And every one except myself is frightened out of his or her wits.

"Why? Am I mad? If not, why? Why? Why?"

ITALIAN ROYAL FAMILY LEAVES BORDER VILLA

SANT'ANNA DI VALDIERI, Italy, Aug. 27 (AP).—King Vittorio Emanuele and other members of the royal family tonight left the summer villa where they have spent the last few weeks. Valdieri—the valley of yesterday—is but ten miles from the Italian-French frontier, where troops are massed on both sides and which is expected to be a main battleground if war comes. They departed for the royal villa at San Rossore, near Leghorn.

RATION COUPONS DISTRIBUTED TO BERLIN CITIZENS

Food, Shoes and Clothing Supplies Restricted.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Germans today discussed with anxiety the introduction of a card to be used for the purchase of food, textiles and shoes—it excepts eggs, potatoes, bread, soap and cocoa, the sale of which are not now to be controled.

Use of the cards was decreed by the government last night after months of preparation. Every person in the country must have a card in making purchases. Hitler Youth distributed the cards to building superintendents who passed them on to families.

The card bears the name, address, age, and profession of each possessor. Fraudulent use is to be punishable by law. Sale of more than each person's share of goods also will bring down the law on both the holder of the card and the storekeeper.

Coupons Attached.

The broad borders of each card are divided into numbered and lettered squares. The squares are marked for coal, sugar, jam, coffee, and substitutes for coffee, tea, dry legumes, milk, oil, fats, meat, and meat products. Eggs, potatoes and bread also are on the card but their sale will not be controled.

My own card is pink, about eight by twelve inches, with my name, age, and address in the middle above a Nazi stamp with the Nazi eagle marked "ministry of the interior of the reich and Prussia."

During the next four weeks the rations each adult will be permitted to purchase daily will be:

One hundred grams [3.5 ounces] of meat, 7 ounces of milk, 2 ounces of butter or fats. Tea will be limited to 20 grams [.70 ounce] per month. Coffee and coffee substitutes will be held to 2 ounces a week. A 4 ounce bar of soap must do for a month.

Not Confession of Weakness.

Newspapers warn the public that the strict control of consumption means that "everybody's needs are to be taken care of" and that there is not a shortage of any of the essential foods. Foreigners also are warned not to assume that this is a confession of weakness on the part of Germany. "On the contrary," it is said, "it shows how efficiently everything has been organized."

How well the distribution will function is another matter, especially in view of the fact that many German dealers have been complaining that they have experienced many difficulties because of the regimentation of all markets.

Foreigners in Berlin were frantically trying to get reservations on trains which they believed would be leaving Berlin tonight. They found the North express, which usually takes the tourist westward in comfort, had been canceled.

Tourists Seek Passage.

Among those seeking a seat on a train or plane was American Congressman Hamilton Fish. He told American reporters that Europe was on the verge of a war but that all problems could be settled by arbitration. He admitted that arbitration would be considered by Germany only after she was given Danzig, the Polish corridor and "what she wants in the east." Then he proceeded to talk about the necessity of removing all vestiges of the Versailles treaty. The foreign office helped Mr. Fish to obtain transportation.

The American Express office was in a complete state of confusion as Americans and other foreigners tried vainly to arrange for a swift departure. Neither rage nor pleading aided their efforts as the men of the staff worked under a deluge of questions of where and how travelers might make connections to leave the country.

Because of the seriousness of the situation and the flood of frightened clients the office had to open on Sunday as did the American embassy and consulate.

Railway stations were crowded with foreigners trying to get away. When tickets for foreign cities were demanded, officials replied:

"We do not know whether you can get through or not."

May Walk Across Border.

This was the reply given at Berlin's main railway station when tickets were requested for Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Switzerland, and Poland.

Some officials thought tickets to border cities might be purchased. They said it might be possible to get through if tickets were bought to border cities, and the travelers then walked across the frontier.

Throughout Berlin army posts were set up on curbs to register the requisitioned automobiles. Citizens took their cars and motorbikes to these stations, had them listed and a value placed on them. Then they were driven off eastward by drivers produced by the army. Columns of them were seen passing through the streets all day. Taxis virtually disappeared from the streets.

As field gray military motorcycles roared through Berlin utterly disregarding what trafic there was Berliners quietly walked the streets. Many citizens had long, dejected faces and all looked bewildered as a result of the swift course of events of the last few days. An air of suspense possessed the wandering crowds. Few smiled or engaged in small talk. The topic most heard was of war, if it would come or whether Fuehrer Hitler would again produce a conquest without conflict.

Groups stopped to watch anti-aircraft soldiers on the roof of the German dye trust building practicing with hand range finders and pointing their binoculars to the east. The watchers were grim, serious.

CABINET RESIGNS IN JAPAN; ARMY GROUP TO POWER

TOKIO, Aug. 28 [Monday.].—(AP)—Premier Baron Hiranuma called at the imperial palace today and tendered his resignation, along with that of his entire cabinet.

This action was forseen last week after soviet Russia signed a nonaggression pact with Germany, resulting in an abrupt change in Japan's foreign policy.

The Japanese government protested to Germany and dropped its close association with the Rome-Berlin axis, turning to a policy of "splendid isolation" approved by the army.

Domei, Japanese news agency, predicted that Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, former acting war minister, will be asked to form a new cabinet. Abe was one of seven army leaders who resigned from the supreme war council after an attempted military coup on Feb. 26, 1936, saying they felt responsible for conditions that made the revolt possible.

Domei also predicted that Lieut. Gen. Rensuke Isogai, chief of staff of the army in Manchukuo, and Vice Admiral Zengo Yoshida, commander-in-chief of the combined fleet, will be the new war and navy ministers, respectively.

HONGKONG NEED NOT FEAR ATTACK, JAPANESE ADVISE

HONGKONG, Aug. 27 (AP).—Reliable sources said tonight that the Japanese consulate had assured Gov. Sir Goeffrey Northcote that Japanese forces were not intending to attack this British crown colony. Censorship imposed without warning at noon yesterday was lifted today and this, combined with the appearance of three British heavy cruisers and other vessels of the China squadron in the harbor, greatly eased the tension prevalent for a week.

Throughout China today government offices and memorial temples commemorated the 2,491st anniversary of the birth of Confucius, venerated as the "matchless sage of 10,000 generations."

Holy Land Orders Bank Holiday in War Tension

JERUSALEM, Aug. 27 (AP).—A three day banking holiday was ordered by the government today following several runs on smaller Tel Aviv banks. Other emergency measures included initiation of food control, issuance of gas masks, and concentration of troops and heavy artillery to protect Haifa's strategic harbor, refineries, and oil pipelines.

IL DUCE ASSURES CANADA HE WILL WORK FOR PEACE

Volunteers Man Dominion Coast Defenses.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 27 [Canadian Press].—Premier Mussolini cabled Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King today that he would "leave untried no effort to safeguard the peace of the world—a lasting peace that is a just peace."

The Italian premier's note was in reply to a message which the Canadian prime minister addressed to Il Duce Friday.

The Mackenzie King message, made public yesterday, urged Mussolini to use his influence to prevent war. Similar messages were sent to Hitler and President Ignace Moscicki of Poland.

In his message, Mackenzie King said Canada is "Prepared to join what authority and power she may possess to that of the other nations of the British commonwealth in seeking a just and equitable settlement of the great problems with which nations are faced."

Il Duce Answers First.

Mussolini was the first of the three statesmen to reply. The mesages to Hitler and Moscicki urged them to settle their difficulties by peaceful methods.

The prime minister and his cabinet stood by ready to act immediately if developments in Europe waranted. Ministers were on call night and day prepared to meet on a moment's notice.

Apart from activity in defense circles, there was no commotion in the capital and Mackenzie King remained at his summer home in Kingsmere, close to Ottawa. Private and confidential reports from London were received at frequent intervals, decoded, and rushed to the prime minister.

In brief public statements last week the prime minister said the government had moved swiftly to be in readiness for any emergency. He indicated the war measures act of 1914, which has remained on the statutes, will be invoked, if necessary, pending assembly of parliament, which will be called immediately if peace efforts fail.

Volunteers Rush to Posts.

Defense Minister Ian Mackenzie disclosed today that approximately 19,000 of Canada's civilian soldiers, members of the nonpermanent militia, are manning coast defenses on the Atlantic and Pacific and guarding utilities and public properties.

The orders were issued Friday. Militia members, whose service is entirely voluntary, responded swiftly. Civilians in all walks of life dropped their usual activities and reported to armories yesterday.

"The response all over the country has been highly satisfactory," Mackenzie said. "Reports coming in all day show a wonderful readiness to serve, from one end of Canada to the other."

11 Districts Mobilized.

As during the world war, guards were placed about vulnerable properties. Particular attention was paid canals, locks and bridges. Eleven military districts were involved, the most men being called from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and in the St. Lawrence valley.

Defense works on both coasts have been manned, and guards placed at vulnerable points along the inland waterway and canal system, at railway bridges, wireless stations, army and commercial flying fields, arsenals, armories, hydro power stations and at factories making munitions and other vital products.

NAZI POLICE SNATCH FOE WHO DEFENDED HIS CATHOLIC FAITH

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BOGOTA, Aug. 27.—The strong arm of the GSP [German secret police] has reached out to Colombia and snatched Karl Emil Kilos, who disappeared mysteriously from Cali, according to a report published by El Liberal. Kilos was forced to desert Hapag Lloyd steamer Karnac last year when it discovered he had distributed leaflets defending his Roman Catholic faith against attacks of the Nazis.

The German legation demanded he be sent to Venezuela, where he was wanted by police but investigation revealed he never has been in Venezuela and that police there never had heard of him. The German legation refused to issue him a passport except for delivery aboard a German ship, a trap Emil refused to enter.

Until his mysterious disappearance, Kilos was working in a machine shop in Cali. It is now alleged an agent of the GSP in Cali, under the orders of Herr Dobe, head of the Colombian branch of that organization, induced Kilos to board a German ship by a ruse and he is now en route to Germany to face trial and possible death.

El Liberal prints a facsimile of letterheads used by the GSP bearing the swastika seal. It also charges that the local National Socialist Workers party is a Nazi group organized by a local German banker.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — Government departments were so busy at war work tonight that details about London's weather were not issued. Fair weather was forecast for tomorrow but the meteorological office, which coöperates with the air ministry, was too busy to give the usual figures on temperatures, wind, and humidity.

RED PARLIAMENT MEETS TO PUT O.K. ON GERMAN PACT

See Position Against Japs Strengthened.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP).—Soviet Russia, now in much stronger position against what she considers her only potential foe—Japan—will speed ratification tomorrow of her nonaggression pact with Germany.

Members of the grand council, or parliament, of 1,143 members streamed into Moscow today from throughout the soviet's vast territory, some coming by air.

Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov is expected at the council meeting to explain Russia's new foreign policy, which in effect is one of strict isolation from Europe's disputes.

Foreign correspondents will be invited to attend. The hour of the meeting has not yet been set.

All newspapers gave front page play today to an interview with Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, soviet defense commissar, who blamed the refusal of Poland, Britain, and France to allow soviet troops to cross Polish territory for the recent breakdown in military staff talks with Britain and France on the now abandoned proposal for a three-power mutual assistance pact.

French Pact May End.

Soviet newspapers also have accused Britain of "underhanded diplomatic dealing." Molotov is expected to take a similar line tomorrow.

Foreign circles in Moscow anticipated possible denunciation by France of the French-soviet pact following the departure tomorrow of French Ambassador Paul Emile Naggiar for Paris, on leave. He plans to fly to Paris via Finland.

Soviet newspapers indignantly reported suppression of French communist newspapers.

The British embassy was reported unofficially to have advised British subjects leaving Russia not to travel on soviet ships which go through Germany's Kiel canal. The embassy reportedly feared that in case of war soviet ships would be halted by Germany and all British subjects of military age interned.

War on Japs Continues.

Hints that fighting still is continuing between Japan and Russia on the outer Mongolian-Manchukuo frontier came in an editorial in the government newspaper Izvestia today, praising Russia's army.

Izvestia said young people are "impatiently awaiting for the day when they wil join the Red army" and lauded troops "now on the border of the Mongolian people's republic, who are courageously struggling to defeat those greedy for foreign lands."

Unofficial reports that the soviet might now follow up her agreement with the reich by improving relations with the latter's axis partner, Italy, were seen in the disclosure today that Italy has an official delegation attending the huge agricultural exhibition in progress here.

A reception was given in their honor two days ago, a number of soviet officials attending.

130 SOVIET TANKS REPORTED LOST IN JAP BATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—Japanese forces today repulsed a heavy soviet Russian artillery onslaught on the Japanese position on the Holonbuir plains, on the Manchukuo-Outer Mongolian border. One hundred and thirty soviet tanks were blown up and heavy losses inflicted on the enemy in several hours of fighting, the Japanese troops reported.

The soviets opened artillery fire at dawn, it was said, on the Japanese encampments at Tsingchunmiao and Nomahan, and Japanese batteries responded.

The Japanese reported that they later began an encircling movement against 5,000 soviet troops, mostly tank and other mechanized units, and were pressing them hard along the banks of the Khalkha river. The tanks were said to have been blown up by flyers when several hundred tanks attacked at Fui heights.

15 Americans on Warship as It Leaves Monte Carlo

CANNES, France, Aug. 27.—The United States destroyer Badger left Monte Carlo this morning for Marseilles. Fifteen Americans are aboard, including Admiral William D. Leahy and Mrs. Leahy and Mrs. George Lackey, wife of Admiral Lackey, who is aboard the Trenton at Villefranche. Several officers' wive were also aboard.

GERMANS LEAVE TIENTSIN AFTER JAP SLAPPINGS

Signing of Nazi-Soviet Pact Blamed.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27 (AP).—Germans started leaving Tientsin today as the result of numerous incidents in which Japanese gendarmes have slapped German citizens since conclusion of the German-soviet nonaggression pact.

Repercussions of the Nazi-communist pact were reported from numerous other Chinese cities. Swastika emblems, which got a friendly Japanese salute until last week, virtually disappeared from autos in Shanghai and Peiping.

Japanese in Peking were reported to have received instructions to "cease provoking the feelings of whites" and not to stage any further anti-British demonstrations.

Two Roads Open to Japan.

Informed foreigners said, however, that it was too early to predict what way Japanese would turn next as a result of the pact. Two possibilities were seen:

First, a relaxation of anti-foreign movements, or second, a sudden blow against all foreign interests in China designed to prove the Japanese army's independence of events abroad.

One source of new Japanese-foreign tension developed with the demand of the Japanese army newspaper Tairiku Shimpo for surrender of Chinese soldiers interned in the international settlement. The paper said Japanese authorities were "greatly concerned" because 6,000 former Chinese soldiers who entered during the Shanghai fighting in 1937 still were held in the international settlement.

Relieve Rice Shortage.

Meanwhile, an acute shortage of rice, principal item of the Chinese diet, was relieved by the arrival of large rice supplies in Shanghai. Japanese announced they had brought in about 1,600,000 pounds over the weekend for distribution to the Chinese. Further shipments of 13,000,000 pounds were said to have been arranged by the Japanese while Chinese dealers arranged other shipments themselves.

British authorities made preparations for the quick transfer of the Seaforth Highlanders from Shanghai to Hongkong in event of a European war. The cruiser Birmingham was made ready at Tsingtao for a speedy run to Shanghai, where a destroyer was standing by to serve as a transport if necessary.

WIFE LEAPS OFF EXCURSION BOAT TO DEATH IN LAKE

Quarrel with Husband Told by Officer.

A young Hammond, Ind., wife leaped last night from the excursion steamer City of Grand Rapids as it was returning from Milwaukee to Chicago. She was Mrs. Thomas Hyland, 30 years old, 227 Clinton street. The ship was about three miles off shore and a little north of Wilmette at the time she leaped to death.

The ship was brought about by Capt. Oscar Byork and the waters were searched for more than an hour without avail.

The vessel continued to Chicago and docked for 10 minutes, then started for a "moonlight cruise" without reporting the affair to police. Port Captain Edward E. Taylor said they "didn't have time."

Inquiry Is Scheduled.

Meanwhile the woman's husband and two other members of his party, Mrs. Charles Cissell, 604 Forsyth street, Calumet City, and Walter Drury, 11319 South Spaulding avenue, were allowed to leave the ship with a request by Capt. Byork to appear this morning at the inquiry before the steamship inspector.

Purser Edward J. Taylor, son of the port captain, gave the details of the leap to Policemen William Thorp and Bernard Mayer of the East Chicago avenue police station, who were waiting at the dock when the ship returned from a second cruise early today.

Tells of Drinking.

The purser said the Hylands and their party got on at Chicago and spent two hours in Milwaukee. He said Hyland and his wife had been drinking and continued to drink on the return voyage. He said they had quarreled almost constantly since leaving Milwaukee and made little use of the two top deck staterooms Hyland had engaged on the boat, which is owned by the Milwaukee Steamship Lines.

Herbert Jansen, a deck guard, attempted to pacify them and heard Mrs. Hyland say: "I'll get even if it's the last thing I do." A little later the couple were seated at a table on the edge of the dance floor when Mrs. Hyland leaped up and ran to the wire gateway that guards the gangway. She scrambled over the wires and leaped into the water.

BRITISH CABINET DELAYS ANSWER TO HITLER NOTE

Dealings in Many Foreign Securities Barred.

de Valera has taken no steps to parallel those taken here. J. W. Dulanty, Irish envoy, already has conveyed this attitude to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, it is reported, and the German, Italian, French, and Polish representatives in Dublin have been similarly informed.

Control Merchant Shipping.

The British admiralty today assumed control of British merchant shipping. All ships must obey instructions from the admiralty, even to the extent of making any change in course that may be thought necessary. The merchant fleet would be merged quickly with the powerful navy in event of war.

There was some speculation in diplomatic circles about the rôles President Roosevelt and Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy are playing in this crisis. Kennedy keeps his telephone line with the American state department virtually open these days and he is able to have instant and long conferences with either Viscount Halifax or Chamberlain at any time.

A persistent effort is made to identify Kennedy with British policy, as for instance tonight when he and Halifax emerged from the foreign office together and together shared the plaudits of the crowd. The idea is conveyed that Kennedy attended today's cabinet meeting.

Busy Day for Diplomats.

It was suggested, but denied, that the British were keeping Kennedy informed of all steps they take and are asking his comments on them or that he get Washington's reactions on them immediately.

A long string of ministers and diplomats kept up a relay of calls on Halifax and Chamberlain. Halifax saw the Rumanian minister at the foreign office for half an hour. André Charles Corbin, French ambassador, and Charalambos Simopoulos, Greek minister, called at the foreign office.

Chamberlain saw Arthur Greenwood, deputy leader of the Labor party in parliament.

Dominion high commissioners in London visited Sir Thomas Inskip, dominion secretary, at the latter's office where presumably they were informed of what passed at the cabinet meeting.

RUMANIA SPURNS HUNGARY PACT ON MINORITY RIGHTS

BUCHAREST, Aug. 27 (AP).—Rumania has refused a Hungarian offer to negotiate a treaty fixing the rights of the Hungarian minority in this country.

Grigore Gafencu, foreign minister, was authoritatively said tonight to have told the Hungarian minister that the minority issue is a domestic affair since the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania, once Hungarian territory, are Rumanian citizens.

Berlin's Grip Revealed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Germany's strong hold on Hungary is shown in Hungary's recent reply to a Rumanian suggestion for a nonaggression pact. According to reports from Rumania, the Hungarian government stated it could not accept because the pact "might be considered an unfriendly act by Germany."

FRENCH POLICE DISPERSE CROWD TAUNTING NAZIS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 27.—The first act of unfriendliness here toward Germany occurred today when a jeering crowd of Alsatians gathered outside the German travel bureau. The crowd was dispersed by police before much damage was done.

Reports from across the Rhine indicate Prussian troops are holding that sector, the Rhineland's own soldiers having been sent elsewhere.

Lights were extinguished on both sides of the river tonight. A full moon, however, illuminated every detail of the landscape, making gun turrets appear like giant mushrooms and enabling one to count almost every strand of barbed wire entanglement and every stake of tank obstacles.

King at Services

[Acme Radiophoto.]

King George VI. of Britain and Dean Labillier of Westminster abbey after the king attended worship yesterday.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain bowed in prayer for peace today.

Leading his people in response to an appeal by the archbishop of Canterbury for intercession "that even now the crime and horror of war may be averted," his majesty slipped quietly into Westminster abbey for morning service and knelt unobtrusively in the choir stalls.

Accompanied by his brothers, the dukes of Gloucester and Kent, and attended by three secretaries, all in somber day clothes, the king drove to the abbey from Buckingham palace.

The king's intention to attend the morning service had been kept secret and few in the crowded church recognized him as he walked down the aisle with his brothers.

POLAND REGARDS MEDIATION ONLY AVENUE TO PEACE

Officials Silent on Hitler's Demand for Corridor.

Marienwerder, one of the largest cities of East Prussia, had been surrounded by German police, its telephone communications cut, and no one allowed to enter or leave.

It was announced that no communication has been possible with a number of Polish consulates in Germany, including those at Marienwerder, in East Prussia; Maehrish-Ostrau, in former Czecho-Slovakia, and Breslau. It was stated here that the Polish consulates in those three cities were permitted no telephone communication.

The Polish telegraph agency said all teachers and pupils of the only Polish High school in East Prussia, at Marienwerder, were placed on trucks by the German secret police and taken out of the city to an undisclosed destination.

Rail and Air Travel Cut Off.

Railroad trafic between Germany and Poland was suspended by the Germans at 6 o'clock last night. Scheduled passenger planes to Berlin did not leave Warsaw yesterday. There was no plane service from Berlin to Warsaw. Instead, the commercial air service to Copenhagen was doubled.

Railroad crossings and stations are under armed guard. Troop and supply trains could be seen yesterday as military preparations went forward. Soldiers waved from box cars in scenes reminiscent of world war days.

Horses were being requisitioned; long lines of peasant carts were used to augment regular military transportation facilities.

A comparatively small number of trenches and shelters were under construction in Warsaw's business district. More were being dug in the residential suburbs, which might escape direct attack, and in other cities and towns throughout the country.

In the suburbs the greater number of diggers were whitecollar workers and their wives, daughters and sweethearts, who are making as much of a picnic as possible of the task.

Trenches and shelter construction here, however, approach in no way the precautionary anti-aircraft measures undertaken in London, Paris, or Berlin. They will be inadequate unless a mass evacuation of the population to safer country districts is carried out.

City Remains Calm.

Aside from the trench digging, Warsaw remained amazingly quiet, with little of the feverish preparations, marching men and warlike atmosphere reported to prevail in other European capitals.

All public services and private business functioned normally. Churches were crowded at yesterday's masses, with a sprinkling of uniformed officers and reservists. The Vistula river was dotted with boats and swimmers.

Government offices remained open, continuing preparations to meet any emergency, but shops and stores closed, as usual, over Sunday. No afternoon newspapers were issued.

The government continued its drastic drive against profiteering, attempting to eradicate it before price raising can get a start.

A walk through the shopping district Saturday evening disclosed only a few closed shops. Normal prices prevailed generally and all stores appeared well stocked with fresh fruit and vegetables, meat, canned goods and other staples.

FRENCH-ITALIAN FRONTIER TRAFIC NEAR STANDSTILL

TURIN, Italy, Aug. 28 [Monday] (AP).—Trafic across the French-Italian frontier has ceased almost entirely on most roads. Authorities denied, however, that the frontier had been "diplomatically closed." Some trains still are running.

The virtual standstill is because tourist trafic has disappeared and various rigid measures have been taken in the frontier region.

Authorities said Italy was not preventing foreigners from leaving the country. Italians liable for military service are forbidden to cross the frontier without special authorization.

DANZIG'S WOMEN AND CHILDREN GO TO SAFE PLACES

Trenches Dug in Fields; More Wire Defenses.

DANZIG, Aug. 27 (AP).—Women and children were being moved from Danzig and neighboring Zoppot to the country today. Danzig's army was spreading out over the western half of the free state, setting up anti-aircraft guns and machine gun nests, digging trenches, and erecting barbed wire.

Semi-official sources estimated 3,000 of the 300,000 inhabitants of Zoppot, a smart seaside resort, had left. Hotels almost were deserted. No estimate of the number who had left Danzig could be obtained.

"Day Near," Says Press.

The official Nazi newspaper, the Danziger Vorposten, said today "the day is near, very near."

Astonished villagers watched soldiers digging trenches across pastures and corn fields and stringing barbed wire in front of the trenches.

At various points soldiers were posted to watch for airplanes from the Polish corridor. Anti-aircraft guns, some camouflaged, were manned. Police today declared the air over Danzig a closed area and said any unauthorized plane flying over the city would be fired upon.

Guns Guard Gas Supply.

Anti-aircraft guns were set up in fields near the shipbuilding works and oil and gasoline tanks in the harbor area.

Fully equipped troops in trucks moved out of the city at intervals, mostly toward the Polish border. Observers believe great quantities of German war equipment had been moved into Danzig from East Prussia in the last few nights.

The pontoon bridge over the Vistula river, recently completed, is guarded by half a dozen machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, and patrols.

City Has Food for Month.

A communication line has been completed on the highway to East Prussia and it is believed a field headquarters has been set up outside the city. Many troops are said to be housed in barns and houses along the road.

Semi-official quarters said Poland had held up carloads of food destined for Danzig and that only a month's supply of many necessities was on hand.

The making of whipped cream, a favorite dish in Danzig, probably will be forbidden this week.

PEGGY DAVIES.

Two years ago auburn haired Peggy Davies won first place in a beauty contest in a loop theater, and lost her prize when the judges discovered she was only 16 years old, too young to compete. Saturday night she entered her second contest at the Ogden theater on the south side, and this time there was no age barrier. She won the title of Miss Ogden Hills, offered by the Ogden Business Men's association, and carried home with her a loving cup, a cash prize, and a renewed interest in Hollywood. Peggy, a sophomore at Morgan Park Junior college, is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 108 pounds.

ROUGH SEA BARS FINAL EFFORT TO RAISE SQUALUS

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 27 (AP).—Rough seas balked the navy today in its final effort to lift the submarine Squalus and the bodies of her 26 dead from beneath the ocean that has held her for more than three months.

With only minor operations remaining before the third hoist that would complete surfacing the submarine that plunged to the bottom in 240 feet of water on May 23, the commanders of the salvage crew decided to make the crucial effort tomorrow, weather permitting.

Tons of water remained within the Squalus tonight, particularly in the after sections where all except 33 of her crew were trapped, but the pumps of the salvage ship Falcon tossing above the submarine's present 90 foot depth were capable of emptying most of this water in a few hours.

BUDAPEST POLICE BREAK UP NAZI VICTORY PARADE

BUDAPEST, Aug. 27 (AP).—Police with drawn sabers crushed a Nazi demonstration in the heart of Budapest today. Scores were hurt in sporadic street fighting.

The Nazi sympathizers attempted to carry out a victory march without a police permit to celebrate the signing of the German-Russian non-aggression pact. When the crowd gathered before Nazi headquarters police closed in from neighboring Mussolini square and dispersed them. Twenty-six persons were arrested.

Several other demonstrations occurred in various parts of the capital. Illegal pamphlets were distributed by youths clad in Nazi uniforms or green shirts.

WORLD FLYERS HOP OCEAN FROM JAPAN TO NOME

The flyers left Tokio yesterday and hopped for Hokkaido Island at 1:03 a. m., Chicago time. They flew over the North Pacific and Bering sea and were received here with a civic welcome.

In command of the flight is Sumitoshi Nakao, holder of a Berlin to Tokio flight record. Six others on board are aviation experts and writers employed by Tokio's newspapers sponsoring the flight.

RADIOS SILENCED ON GERMAN SHIPS; BREMEN DELAYED

Vessels Hide Positions to Avert Capture.

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—All German merchant ships on the seas silenced their wirelesses tonight, apparently for the purpose of concealing their positions to prevent capture in case of war, and in conformance with secret instructions previously issued.

Confirmation of this was reported by radio station WMCA which said it had intercepted a message by short wave from Europe to about fifty German ships. Each was called by name, the station asserted, and this order was given in German: "Act on your special secret instructions."

Among the ships silenced was the liner Bremen, carrying 1,700 Americans to this port. Hamburg-American officials announced that the Bremen would be a day late in New York, but mystery surrounded the whereabouts of the ship and the cause of the delay.

Officials of the line indicated, however, the vessel was keeping to her course and insisted she would reach New York on Tuesday instead of Monday.

German Ships Hide Identity.

Indication that German ships were taking other precautions to avoid seizure in case of war came from Lisbon, Portugal, where two German freighters, the Erna Oldendorff and the Rio de Janeiro, appeared out of a thick fog with their names and insignia obliterated and their funnels painted black.

They displayed no national flag, and the captains said their ships were disguised because they feared seizure should war break out.

Two Hamburg-American liners, the St. Louis and New York, secured clearance papers in New York today, and three hours later the St. Louis set out for her home port under sealed orders. Both vessels had been scheduled to depart later in the week. The St. Louis previously had canceled a Bermuda cruise, for which 565 passengers had reservations.

Two liners of the German East Africa Line, the Pretoria and Usambora, were recalled to Hamburg, Germany, after their scheduled stops to pick up passengers at Southampton, England, were canceled.

Britain Also Acts.

Britain, too, acted to prepare for the stress of warfare, when the admiralty tonight assumed control of empire merchant shipping. Merchant ships now must follow admiralty orders as to change of destination or course.

Meanwhile, efforts to aid in the evacuation of thousands of Americans clamoring to leave Europe were made by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, who announced there that the embassy was trying to induce ship owners to make unscheduled stops in Britain.

"There is a possibility of securing several such vessels if the owners can be assured of sufficient business to warrant taking the ships off their regular runs," he said.

Vessels Are Crammed.

All ships bound for America are crammed, with makeshift accommodations set up in dining salons and even in ship's bars.

Americans unable so far to leave France have been advised to assemble at Cherbourg and Le Havre and there to await opportunities to go home. A total of 250 Americans sailed from Le Havre today on the American liner President Roosevelt, making an emergency trip.

Americans in Germany have found difficulty getting across the border and thence to the French coast. Cancelation of Italian sailings has left a small group of Americans in Lisbon, Portugal.

Positions of Vessels Given.

The disposition of various vessels, as European nations hastened to prepare for possible conflict, was as follows:

British ships: Georgic, reached here today; Franconia, reached Boston today and left for New York; Ausonia and Letitia, reached Montreal today; Aquitania, scheduled to reach here Tuesday; Samaria, left Queenstown today for Boston and New York; Mauretania, left for Europe today with 745 passengers, including 169 American citizens; Britannic, reached Queenstown yesterday on way to England; Scythia, arrived in Galway yesterday on way to England; Queen Mary, to arrive at Cherbourg and Southampton tomorrow; Laconia, en route to Liverpool from Boston.

It was announced the Queen Mary may not leave England Wednesday for New York as scheduled.

French ships: De Grasse, reached here today; Normandie, arrives here tomorrow.

Italian ships: Vulcania, eastward bound in the Atlantic; other Italian vessels remaining safely in port here and abroad under previous orders.

German ships: Europa, scheduled to land thirty passengers at Southampton, England, tomorrow en route to Germany.

Two More Trips Canceled.

The two ships which reached New York today, the British Georgic and the French De Grasse, brought 1,556 passengers. Both ships left Le Havre last Monday before the international situation was made more acute by the announcement of the German-soviet nonaggression pact.

The British liners Britannic and Scythia had been scheduled to sail for America next Friday, but the trips were canceled. Last Friday the California and Caledonia also were taken from service. The vessels will be held in readiness as troop transports.

Sailings from Europe not yet canceled include those of the French liners Champlain and the Ile de France, due to leave from Southampton on Tuesday and Friday, respectively; the Empress of Britain and the Aurania, to leave for Quebec, on Saturday, and the Athenia, to leave from Liverpool for Quebec the same day.

THE ABC'S OF SILVER (8)

By CALEB

LIKE the evolution of furniture, that of silver has been influenced throughout some forty centuries by the art motifs predominant in different historic eras, or "periods." These periods, variously identified with nations, reigning monarchs, or regimes, are familiar to silvercraft authorities as: Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Gothic, Italian Renaissance, French Renaissance, Louis XIV, XV, and XVI, Directoire and Empire, English Renaissance, William and Mary, Queen Anne, Georgian, and American Colonial. Definitely modern, of course, are those referred to as Contemporary Design.

Even as names, the art expression characteristic of these periods becomes reasonably familiar. The Egyptian, for example, was based on the papyrus, palm and lotus—also on animals and winged human figures. Greece took its design, in turn, from Egypt — using the acanthus leaf, anthemion (or honeysuckle), and adding ornamentations like the egg-and-dart, fluting, and key. From Greece quickly flowered the Roman Classic designs, still inspiring after two thousands years; and Rome's famous "Five Orders of Architecture" were reflected in the silversmith's kindred art.

Following Roman influence came still later dominance by Gothic, with its trefoil and pointed arches, conventional oak and ivy leaf patterns—speedily overwhelmed by the Italian Renaissance, and its fantastically embellished Greek and Roman themes. From Francis I's visit to Italy, art's rebirth spread its ornate way throughout the whole of Europe. Three great ensuing periods of the 18th century were those of the Louis's, when decorative art reached a munificence mirrored in silver; Directoire, which followed, was echoed overseas in the Colonial creations of Duncan Phyfe; while Empire, established by Napoleon, reveled in heavy carvings and massive lines of Roman and Egyptian inspiration.

The English Renaissance, William and Mary, Queen Anne, and Georgian designs so prevalent in furniture found analogous expression in the lovely silver creations of those times. Early Colonial naturally patterned itself on such European models; but Contemporary design is as distinctively, "of today," and as American, as Rockefeller Center.

No summary can do more than indicate the historic stair by which design in silver has ascended from its ancient origins to modern pre-eminence. Available in Field's current selections are abundant examples of the fine craftsmanship which gives them expression.

FORESTS ASTIR AS WINDS SING SONG OF CHANGE

Mother Nature to Bundle Up Her Brood Soon.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

At the end of a summer day in the Palos Hills forest preserves of Cook county one feels with Keats that it would be better if such things could be written on a Grecian urn and the happy melodists in the trees and marshes, unwearied, could go on "forever piping their songs forever new."

But nature will not have it so. A change impends, a turn of the earth on that blue horizon, in the vault where the pale moon abides and one small white cloud serenely sails. Warning gusts of wind sweep through the cicada killed leaves. Underneath is the fall chorus of the crickets, the katydids, the drums of the conquering locusts, like the "still, sad music of humanity."

Just a Jump to Wilderness.

It is strange to find, so close to the city, a place of wilderness aspect. There are 9,000 acres in which to wander from the jumping off place near Willow Springs; Maple and Tuma lakes for boating and fishing; camps and picnic groves, upland vistas, views of pleasant farms.

One may look up or down on these trails; peep through the windows of infinite worlds; listen to the morning voices of the old, old woods; nibble, and browse, and smell the wild, sweet smell of the swamps and meadows; study the methods of nature in handing on the torch of life. The burrs stick to your coat. That is one way life carries on. Another is the eddying, vaulting flight of seeds borne on white, fluffy wings. One chance in a million of survival, but survival is certain. The individual is sunk in the species until it becomes conscious in man.

Nature Is Love Incarnate.

Take the thought in the gall that you may pick up anywhere in the woods. It is a little green ball, like a marble, that grows on twigs or leaves. The sawfly, of which there are some 300 species, takes this way of life, so remote from any of humanity's concepts or uses. The precious egg, cared for by the principle in nature that may be called love, is inside the gall, well protected by many layers and spiky shock absorbers, so that it may fall thousands of feet in a storm and not be hurt. Break it open, and a tiny, naked worm emerges. You have been the chance that prevented its life and growth in the earth into the fly or moth stage. But there are millions of others.

Wonders Without an End.

There is no end to this wonderland. A foot of swamp, in the reeds and shallow waters, discloses the waterbugs, little black engines that swing and dart like the ducks, the martins, and the starlings overhead. A mysterious will moves them all as one. The food chain is being brought back here. Water first, in twenty-five new ponds, then the weeds and the invisible animal life on which the bugs and minnows feed. Then the fish. Then the bitterns, stalking so stealthily; the herons, so still and waiting; the ducks, and king ralls, and sandpipers. It is a panorama of life built upon life.

Some sense borne upon the winds warns of change. The animals put on more fur. The purple martins gather for their fall convention and flight to the south. The little sandpiper which breeds in the arctic gets ready for winter in the West Indies or Central America. The heron, the rail, and the egrets, which have been lured back to us by the policy of swamp building and the forest preserve cities of refuge, will fly away soon to new homes in the sun.

For they are not of two worlds, as the frog and man. We make our own sun and the frog goes to sleep confident of the morning of another summer.

57TH ST. CHARLES INMATE ESCAPES ON CHICAGO TRIP

The 57th inmate of the St. Charles School for Boys to escape this year walked off yesterday while lunching with the school's drum and bugle corps in a West Chicago restaurant. He is Albert Shanahan, 17 years old, of Chicago.

Supt. William T. Harmon had sent the corps to take part in the Du Page county centennial celebration at West Chicago. At noon the musicians were taken to a restaurant. When they were ready to leave Shanahan's coat was found, but he was missing. Police believe he removed the scarlet coat and strolled out unnoticed. He was reported seen later walking toward Chicago.

James Guernsey, 17 years old, was seized yesterday in a garage at 1735 East Railroad avenue, Evanston. Guernsey, who lives at 2211 Estes avenue, Chicago, was locked up at Evanston police station. Detective Charles Claypool said he had been released from the St. Charles School for boys five weeks ago. Claypool said young Guernsey was about to drive away in one of the cars kept in the garage when captured.

BURGLAR STEALS PLANE; ESCAPES UNHURT IN CRASH

A burglar-pilot stole an airplane early yesterday from the Ashburn airport hangar at 8401 South Cicero avenue and wrecked it an hour later in attempting to land on the airport field. He apparently escaped unhurt.

The plane, a two passenger Piper Cub with a 40 horse power Continental motor, was owned by the General Air service. Bernard De Witt, manager of the service, said the thief broke the lock on the hangar doors to gain admittance. An automatic timer on the plane showed that its motor had been started about 4:30 a. m. and had stopped an hour later. De Witt said that the flyer evidently misjudged his landing because of a slight fog. The plane turned over, breaking the propeller and damaging the motor.

KANGAROO COURT STILL ON BENCH IN RHODE ISLAND

Charge Political Coloring of Its Findings.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Aug. 27.—Rhode Island's Supreme court, the tribunal set up the Democratic machine in the "bloodless revolution" of four years ago, continues to operate as a political court, in the opinion of leading members of the bar here.

Gov. W. H. Vanderbilt.

The court is known as the kangaroo court. Although it has been criticized for allowing political expediency to color its findings, Gov. William H. Vanderbilt, a Republican, has consistently maintained a hands-off policy.

It lies within the power of Gov. Vanderbilt and the Republican majorities of the legislature to oust the court and form a new one, but they have refused to take the same steps the Democratic machine took on Jan. 1, 1935.

Coup Engineered by Green.

On that day the old Supreme court was purged, the new one created, and the whole government of the state overturned. The coup was engineered by Gov. Theodore Francis Green, now a United States senator, and Lieut. Gov. Robert E. [Rule or Ruin] Quinn. Quinn later became governor and two years ago achieved national notoriety by calling out the militia to oust his political foe, Walter E. O'Hara, from the management of Narragansett race track.

In order to carry out the court packing scheme in the legislature the Democrats needed a majority of the senate which the Republicans controled by two votes. Quinn refused to seat Wallace Campbell and B. Earle Anthony, two Republican senators. Two Democrats then were declared elected and, with Quinn wielding the gavel, the purge program was pushed through in twelve minutes.

Flynn Chief Justice.

In the fiasco four years ago Edmund W. Flynn was the Democratic floor leader in the house. He was appointed chief justice of the new court and remains so today. The rest of the court also remains the same, including: Francis B. Condon, former Democratic congressman; William W. Moss, Democrat and former assistant attorney general, and two former Republican Superior court judges who threw their lot in with the purgees, Hugh B. Baker and Antonio A. Capotosto.

Current criticism of the kangaroo court centers on two recent opinions. One prevented a special grand jury investigation into wholesale election frauds at the polls last fall when the machine sought desperately to reëlect Gov. Quinn. The other blocked a reorganization of the notoriously corrupt municipal government of Providence.

In February the Supreme court informed Gov. Vanderbilt in an opinion that it would be contrary to the first article of the state constitution to impanel a special or additional grand jury to sit at the same time as a regular grand jury. This upset Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony's plan for a sweeping inquiry into election frauds and "other corruption."

The first article of the constitution is substantially a recital of the bill of rights and provides for indictment by "a grand jury" and trial by petit jury. "We are convinced that the framers and adopters of our constitution did not contemplate, under the expression 'a grand jury,' one of two or more grand juries existing and functioning at the same time in one county," declared the court.

Based on Dewey's Program.

Jackvony had intended to model his grand jury investigation along lines which have proved so eminently successful for District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey in his crusade against New York rackets. Several of Dewey's assistants had been called in to help with the inquiry.

On April 12 the Supreme court held the proposed proportional representation method of electing councilmen in Providence was unconstitutonal. The court went back to the King Charles charter, under which Rhode Island operated until the constitution was adopted in 1842, to prove its point.

Announcement of the court's opinion was greeted with applause by Democratic members of the legislature from Providence. The machine was solidly opposed to the plan which Gov. Vanderbilt had suggested be put to the people in referendum.

The machine politicians fought the proportional representation plan because it would cut across ward lines. This would deal a body blow at the organization which is set up by wards. Although John F. Collins, a Republican, was swept into office as mayor of Providence in the Vanderbilt landslide last fall, the Democrats still have a majority of the aldermen.

Largest Council in Nation.

Providence has the largest city council in the United States, with thirty-nine in the common council and thirteen in the board of aldermen. Operating through sixty council commitees it is almost impossible to localize responsibility. Waste, inefficiency and corruption breed from the situation.

Under the plan which the Supreme court blocked a council of nine members and a city manager were proposed.

Since members of the local bar have cases pending before the kangaroo court they are chary about putting their views into the record publicly. The private opinion shared by many is that if the Supreme court could stretch the constitution one way, the practical result of which was in favor of the Democratic organization, the court, without violating any definite constitutional prohibition, could have held a special grand jury legal.

RACING PLANE STRIKES WOODS IN CLEVELAND; KANSAS PILOT KILLED

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27 (AP).—A racing plane being groomed for speed events of the national air races crashed today near the race course, killing its pilot, Delbert Bush, 26 years old, of Leavenworth, Kas.

The bullet like red monoplane took off from the Cleveland airport runway, scene of the aviation event starting next Saturday, and flew to the adjoining race course.

As Bush roared once around the steel tower pylons marking the course his motors sputtered and stopped. He was only about 500 feet above the ground and the ship dropped quickly, crashing into the woods bordering the Cleveland metropolitan park system.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

DISCLOSE STENCH BOMBING OF TWO HOMES IN STRIKE

Reports of Labor Terror in Dispute Continue.

More instances of labor terrorism in connection with the strike at the Revere Copper and Brass company plant, 2200 North Natchez avenue, were reported yesterday by officials and nonstriking employés of the concern.

The strike was called on June 22 by the United Automobile Workers' Union of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, when the union's demand for a wage increase was denied. Five hundred employés are idle.

Last week, when six men hired through the Landis Award Employers' association tried to move a truck from the strikebound plant, they were set upon by a gang of sluggers. Three strikers seized after the fighting are to be tried on Sept. 12 on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Police Under Fire.

Following the booking of the men at the Austin station on the misdemeanor charge, Paul Stoddard, personnel director of the association, accused the police of laxity. He said he asked to sign complaints against the three, charging assault with intent to kill, a felony charge. Then, he asserted, he was asked to sign blank complaints to be filled out later by police. The next day, he said, he discovered the lighter charge had been filed.

Stoddard also assailed Cragin police, assigned to prevent disturbances at the plant, for refusing to act as a convoy for the truck. To this charge Supervising Captain Joseph Goldberg replied: "The police are not supposed to act as strike breakers."

Stench Bombings Bared.

Two stench bombings last Tuesday night were revealed yesterday. Bombs were thrown from a moving automobile on the front lawn at the home of E. A. Arnesen, sales manager of the Revere company, at 1518 Forest avenue, River Forest. Several hours later bombs were tossed on the front porch of a house at 4815 Iowa street, where Frank Klausch, a nonstriker, lives with his family.

A few weeks previously, bricks were tossed through the front windows of the home of George Derby, office manager, at 1023 North Marion street, Oak Park, while the family was asleep on the second floor. Three parlor windows were smashed and some of the furniture in the parlor was damaged.

On July 17, at 1 a. m., a half dozen electric light bulbs filled with aluminum paint were hurled on the front porch, windows, and porch furniture at the home of A. D. Fielding, 4819 Iowa street. Fielding, who has worked for the company twenty-five years, is a supervisory clerk in the shipping department.

Tells of Advising Strikers.

"I've been pretty active in telling some of the strikers they ought to go back to work," Fielding said. "That's why they saw fit to do this to me. Actually, I considered the strike unjust. The company has been fair with all of us, and we haven't any serious complaint."

The automobile of Clarence Zuhl, a nonstriking employé, was partially wrecked on July 17 when it was parked near the plant. Tires were slashed, the windshield was broken, and most of the wires were cut.

Several weeks ago the front porch of the home of Edward Pickering, another nonstriker, in Norwood Park, was spattered with paint.

'AUTO OF STRIKE BOUND REFINERY CHIEF BLOWN UP

Toledo, O., Aug. 27 [Special].—A mysterious explosion blew Dennis Hart's parked automobile to pieces early today in the drive behind his home in suburban Ottawa Hills. Hart is superintendent of the Gulf Refining company's Toledo refinery, which has been closed since May 20 by a strike of Oil Workers' union, Local 346, an affiliate of the C. I. O.

Chief R. F. Meyers of the Ottawa Hills police charged that the explosion was caused by labor terrorists. He said he believed they had placed a time bomb in the car. Parts of the wreckage were thrown 300 feet, but none struck the house, in which Hart's daughter, Eleanor, 26 months old, was in the care of a maid. Hart and his wife were away.

The union began picketing the sixteen story Nicholas building, in which the company has offices, a week ago. Police say many independent filling station owners have painted out the company's name over their goods since the strike began.

ROBBED BY TWO GUNMEN.

Police yesterday were seeking two colored gunmen who robbed John L. Williams, 1230 Albion avenue, of $40 Saturday night at Warren boulevard and Sacramento avenue.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Do you think congress, which appropriated 13 billion dollars, voted to spend too much?

Where Answered.

On the Gold Coast.

The Answers.

Miss Margaret Welshaar, 57 East Walton street, advertising copy writer.—That's a very poor question. How do I know they did appropriate 13 billions? What was it for—to teach reliefers tap dancing, or what? It's all right if they've got it, but I doubt if they have it. When I spend more than I make I'm in a mess, and I suspect congress is going to be the same way.

William H. Percival, 2744 North Albany avenue, grocery manager.—The appropriation was too large, in my opinion, but they should have voted to spend it to a certain extent. More than $1,700,000,000 was appropriated for 1940 relief. That seems tremendous when they don't know what 1940 will be like. Why don't the try to get more jobs for individuals?

Miss Katherine Esdohr, 40 East Oak street, schoolgirl.—No, they shouldn't have appropriated all that money. They're running the country too much into debt. Certain things are necessary—like relief—but they ought to leave the army alone. They could save a lot there, and in other departments. The postoffice ought to get along on its resources.

Arch Dillow, 1325 North Dearborn street, store clerk.—Sure, congress should have appropriated 13 billions. Why not? They're in debt so much now they might as well have a good time. Those poor old senators and representatives sweating away down in Washington—most of them are getting along in years—I say, let 'em have a chance to enjoy themselves.

Mrs. Evelyn Foltz, 56 East Oak street, dress designer.—I think 13 billions is a lot of money. I really think they're taking too much away from the public in taxes. We do need relief, but I think we can cut down somewhere. The war department—that's really necessary now. But the interior department—I think we could get along without that.

JUDGE McGARRY SLATED FOR NEW COURT THIS WEEK

Expect Transfer Urged by Crime Body.

Judge Eugene L. McGarry, who has been criticized by the Chicago crime commission for his decisions in two cases in the Felony court, is slated for transfer to another court at the end of this week, it was reported yesterday.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, who has the sole power of transferring Municipal court judges, is out of the city, but court attachés said a shift of judges was planned and that Judge McGarry was certain to be affected.

Accused of Favoring Defense.

The crime commission recommended Saturday that Judge McGarry be assigned to one of the civil branches. He is inclined to favor defense attorneys and his apparent dislike for the state's attorney's office has impaired his usefulness in the Felony court, the crime commission charged.

Judge McGarry's first difference with the prosecutor's office occurred early in the month in the now notorious "fix" case involving a burglar who was granted probation by the judge. Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan said Judge McGarry admitted granting leniency at the request of Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski of the 32d ward. This statement was denied by the judge. The burglar subsequently was indicted and sentenced to a year in prison.

Frees Woman in Theft.

Last Friday Judge McGarry dismissed "for want of prosecution" a larceny charge against a woman accused of taking a ring and money from a man who went to a hotel room with her. The complainant was in court and had come from Florida at his own expense to prosecute the case.

Tappan Gregory, president of the Chicago Bar association, which ordered an investigation of the first complaint against Judge McGarry, has announced that a bar committee also will study the second complaint concerning the judge's official conduct.

REPORT JOHNSON HIDING TO AVOID SKIDMORE JURY

No Trace Found in 2 Week Hunt by Federal Men.

William Johnson, gambling house owner, was reported in hiding yesterday by federal agents who have been seeking him for two weeks to subpena him before the federal grand jury investigating the income of William R. Skidmore, reputed collector for the gambling syndicate.

The grand jury is said to need only the testimony of Johnson and of State's Attorney Courtney to complete its survey of gambling conditions here. Courtney is coöperating with William J. Campbell, United States district attorney, and is to testify and produce his records on the subject this week.

Arrest Is Indicated.

An aid of Prosecutor Campbell said that if Johnson has fled from the city to avoid testifying about Skidmore's income, he may be arrested and brought back as a material witness.

Campbell has explained that the federal inquiry is not concerned with gambling as such but only in so far as it furnishes income to Skidmore. Last year Courtney's policemen made more than 700 ax raids, smashing furniture in handbooks and seizing gambling chiefs for questioning as to what protection, if any, they had paid.

Johnson and Skidmore were denounced by State's Attorney Courtney as members of the old Capone gambling syndicate. Courtney's policemen said they were partners in the operation of some gambling houses. The federal grand jury now wants to know if that is the truth.

Seek Partnership Details.

If Johnson and Skidmore are partners in all their ventures the task of the special grand jury would be easier, government lawyers stated, providing they could get Johnson on the witness stand.

Aids of Prosecutor Courtney expressed the opinion that Skidmore was not a full partner in Johnson's big gambling houses—and it was admitted he usually has two or three big places operating in Cook county. They added they didn't believe Johnson was a partner of Skidmore in the alleged collections from the thousand odd handbooks in Chicago which deal exclusively in horse race bets.

ENDS LIFE BY CUTTING THROAT.

Q. "What one suit should I have, above all?"

A: Shagland by HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

Q. "Why a Shagland?"
A. "Because here is a suit that will rule the campus roosts this year—it's a rough fabric that's tough and comfortable and can take all the hard wear you can give it."

Q. "What type of fabric or pattern?"
A. "Either an imported British nubbed Tweed, or an Aberdeen Shetland in a herringbone or a diagonal weave."

Q. "How about the model?"
A. "Your best bet is the 'Ivy Street'—a three-button single-breasted. The 'Sketch Club' double-breasted drape is a good choice, too, especially for off-campus wear."

Q. "Any special shade?"
A. "It's a matter of individual choice—brown, blue or green."

Q. "How much is this Shagland?"
A. "Surprisingly little, considering the quality of its tailoring, by Hart Schaffner & Marx."

Q. "What about the hat question?"

Q. "What's right in sweater and hose?"
A. "Baskin is recommending a natural camel color sweater in crew neck style and with pockets. Ask for 'Camelot', priced at $5."

Q. "... and what shoes?"
A. "FLORSHEIMS, of course, and preferably a heavily-brogued wing tip as shown above : : : with full double sole and leather heel. The plump Norwegian calf uppers are especially tanned for hand-staining, the custom finish that's a 'must' on every campus in the land. Priced $10."

F. D. R. MAY HELP BRITISH DESPITE NEUTRALITY ACT

Report Loopholes in Law Clear Way.

mines; tanks, military armored vehicles and armored trains; vessels of war, aircraft, assembled or dismantled, "which are designed, adapted, and intended for aerial combat by the use of machine guns or of artillery or for the carrying and dropping of bombs"; aircraft engines; Livens projectors and flame throwers; mustard gas and other war gases.

Curbs Freedom of Action.

In 1937 the neutrality law was extended and expanded and though the President opposed its restrictions on his full freedom of action he signed it. This act, which is the law today, reenacted the prohibition of export of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to belligerents. It is this provision which the President now wants repealed because in the event of a European war it would operate, if rigidly enforced, to prevent Britain and France from obtaining American arms, ammunition, and implements of war.

As a further measure to keep the country out of entanglement in foreign war the existing law goes beyond the 1935 act in the cash and carry provision governing the purchase in this country by belligerents of commodities other than those enumerated by the President as arms, ammunition, and implements of war. It provides that if the President shall deem it a necessary measure for the security of peace of the country he shall embargo the export except on certain conditions of certain articles not classed as arms, ammunition, and implements of war. The President is required to specify the additional articles to be embargoed.

No action ever has been taken under this provision of the law. The authors of the legislation intended that the cash and carry provision should be applied to raw materials, foodstuffs and other classes of supplies essential to the conduct of military operations. Included on the cash and carry list would be cotton, copper, steel, oil, wheat, and such other articles as the President might specify.

Carried in Non-American Ships.

The conditions laid down for the export of this class of articles are that title to the articles shall be transferred to a non-American party before it leaves our shores and that it shall be transported in a non-American ship. By this means it is insured that belligerents must pay cash for American products and carry them away.

The neutrality act also prohibits American loans to belligerents, the President, however, being accorded discretion to except commercial credits and short term obligations.

Travel by Americans on ships of belligerent nations is prohibited except under rules prescribed by the President. This provision does not apply to Americans taking passage before the President's proclamation of a state of war or within 90 days to an American returning home from a foreign country. The arming of American merchant ships engaged in commerce with belligerents is forbidden.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

NICE, France, Aug. 27.—French military authorities today forbade naval flyers aboard the United States destroyer Trenton, anchored at Villefranche, to make practice flights at sea. They said the tense European situation makes flights of foreign planes too dangerous.

POLITE AUTOISTS TO BE PAID OFF IN CASH TOMORROW

Offered as Feature of Courtesy Week.

Polite motorists will be rewarded with cash dividends tomorrow. As a feature of Courtesy week, which began yesterday and will continue through next Saturday, the Chicago Motor club will award the prizes to the most considerate drivers found in the city tomorrow.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, said the club's fleet of white cars will be on tour looking for courteous motorists. Politeness both to other drivers and to pedestrians will be judged. The awards will total $100.

Safety Value Emphasized.

"It is our aim to emphasize in this manner the theme 'Courtesy Saves Lives,' which Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee is promoting during its sponsorship of Courtesy week," Hayes said. "Courtesy will reduce trafic accidents."

Tomorrow has been designated "private car owners' day" of Courtesy week. Today will be "industrial day."

Yesterday was "church day," and churches of all denominations joined in observing the beginning of Courtesy week.

Church Leader Coöperates.

"We are sympathetic with the effort being made to obtain more careful and safe driving," said Ralph Wakefield, president of the Chicago Church federation. "We realize that courtesy is essential in this time when so much power and speed are placed in the hands of people."

Jacob Singer, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association, said Courtesy week is "a timely and farsighted effort."

"The situation grows more menacing when we remember that automobile tragedies are man-made," Singer said. "A little more care and a little less speed make the huge difference between sanity with safety and recklessness with tragedy. We need Courtesy week for protecting lives and promoting character."

ADMITS SLAYING LAWYER WHO WON SUIT AGAINST HIM

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 27 (AP).—Wilbur E. Farrington, 53 years old, a carpenter of suburban Robbinsdale, tonight confessed he shot and killed Davis Theodore Melin, Minneapolis attorney, Friday night. Farrington also admitted shooting and wounding Mrs. Gunnar Ellison early Saturday, four hours after Melin was killed. Farrington said he had intended to slay Mr. Ellison but missed him. Farrington, who is held without charge, was quoted as saying he killed Melin and attempted to kill Ellison, because he was going to lose his home on a judgment obtained by Ellison through Melin. The judgment, based on a $75 stucco job, now totals $300, and Farrington's home was to be sold by the sherif.

Radio Announcer Robbed of $500 Picnic Proceeds

Frank Kovach, 39 years old, a Hammond radio announcer was robbed early today by five armed and masked bandits of $500, one-third of the proceeds of a Hungarian picnic held in Riverview park yesterday. He was on his way home with his secretary, Stephen Segedy, 5330 Drexel avenue, when the bandits curbed his car at Western avenue and Fulton street. Segedy fell from the car as one of the robbers opened the door and was slugged with a pistol butt. Kovach speeded away but the bandits overtook him at Monroe street and Western avenue and compelled him to hand over the $500. Kovach lives at 817 East 92d street.

Methods employed in Detroit to solve metropolitan trafic problems similar to those encountered in Chicago will be outlined tomorrow by Murray D. Van Waggoner, Michigan state highway commissioner and president of the American Road Builders' association, before members of the Chicago Regional Planning association at their annual luncheon in the Palmer house. Van Waggoner's discussion, leaders of the association said, should be particularly appropriate in view of Chicago's superhighway program. D. H. # 2 YOUNG COUPLES BURN TO DEATH AS AUTOS CRASH

Joliet Victims Trapped in Blazing Car.

Two young women and two young men were burned to death early yesterday when their car overturned and burst into flames after a collision with another machine in state route 6, three miles east of Marseilles in La Salle county. All were residents of Joliet.

The victims, burned beyond recognition, were identified by state highway police as Miss Dorothy Brogan, 19 years old, 615 Chase avenue; Miss Sue Kimak, 17, of 705 Chase avenue; Michael Grutka, 22, of 659 Landau avenue, the driver, and John Titra Jr., 22, of 611 Garnsey avenue.

Allen Shelton, 22 years old, of Marseilles, driver of the other car, was burned seriously when he tried to rescue the victims from the blazing car. He was taken to a hospital in Ottawa. Shelton told police the two cars sidewiped on the highway. He said the victims were trapped inside the wrecked car.

Albert Wenzel, a clerk, of 555 Barry avenue, was killed when his speeding automobile crashed into a safety island at Milwaukee and Devon avenues. He was being chased at the time by a Niles Center police squad who said Wenzel was speeding at eighty miles an hour.

Kenneth Anderson, 20, a mechanic, of 7046 North Damen avenue, and George W. Kay, 21, a carpenter, of 5065 North Damen avenue, were killed when their motorcycle and an automobile collided at Kimball and Lincoln avenues. The driver of the car was Robert Piotrowski, 19 years old, 4031 North Troy street. He told police that the motorcycle, driven by Anderson, was on the wrong side of the road.

An inquest will be held today into the death of Henry Karecker, 19, of 1801 North avenue. He was injured fatally early yesterday when he lost control of his car and it ran into a ditch and overturned twice in Rand road two miles north of Mount Prospect.

Five Occupants Injured.

Five other occupants of the car were injured. They are Miss Evelyn Kalck, 18, of 2053 Roscoe street; Thomas Kam, 21, of 3243 North Hoyne avenue; Miss Florence Westphal, 26, and her sister, Helen, 25, of 2959 Nelson street, and Thomas Ankebrant, 21, of 3222 North Hoyne avenue.

Cuneo Durante, 53, of 2120 Lake street, Melrose Park, a WPA worker, was killed last night between 22d and 23d streets on North avenue in the suburb when he was struck by a car driven by Louis H. Rothe, 17, of 1143 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

Frank Urtama, 51, of 611 Washington Park avenue, Waukegan, was killed when he was struck by a car in Belvidere street at the Waukegan city limits.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 536 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 417 were killed in Chicago, where 14,010 were injured in trafic accidents during the same period.

Deland Motorist Killed and Companion Injured

Monticello, Ill., Aug. 27 [Special].—Ottis Foster, 24 of Deland, was killed late last night when the automobile in which he was riding left the dirt road on a curve and overturned. Miss Helen Lampkin, Bement, Ill., a companion, received serious injuries.

WOMAN FUGITIVE SEIZED IN DRIVER LICENSE SCANDAL

Joan Meriault, sought since she failed to answer a reckless driving charge Aug. 1, was arrested by Detectives Edward O'Connell and Arnold Arnevick last night at 4332 Drexel avenue.

Mrs. Meriault, who is 26 years old, was placed on six months' probation on a drunken driving charge by Judge Thomas A. Green in Safety court on June 29. Her driving privileges were suspended for the same period. On July 29 she was rearrested on a reckless driving charge. She gave $50 bond, which was forfeited when she failed to appear in court.

It then developed that her previous arrest had not been noted on her driver's license, as required by law. This brought an investigation into reported laxity in enforcing the law. Police said they would take her to Safety court, probably tomorrow, to face the reckless driving charge and an investigation of why she violated the ban on her driving.

FHA BACKS PLAN FOR $2,500 HOMES ON 5% DOWN BASIS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Federal Housing administration announced today a plan for financing construction of small homes which will require the purchaser to make only a 5 per cent "down payment" on a house costing no more than $2,500.

Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator, said regulations making the program effective Sept. 1 have been mailed to banks and other lending institutions. The FHA does not lend money itself, but insures construction loans made by private institutions.

The new plan will be limited to homes costing $2,500 or less, and will not affect the present FHA program of financing costlier homes on a basis of a 10 per cent minimum down payment and a 4½ per cent mortgage, plus a ½ per cent insurance premium.

Monthly payments on a home valued at $2,000, the FHA said, would be a little less than $17 a month, not including taxes and fire insurance.

The Lady Bug's a Lady, So No Biting Remarks!

Lady, a lady bug won't bite a lady. It won't bite any one. That's today's message from August Koch, chief horticulturist of the Chicago parks. So many ladies write him to ask if lady bugs bite, he explains. Or if you're a lady writing to inquire about those brown bugs on the underside of your fern, he wants you to know they're no bugs. They're the fern's spores. And don't think your fern's going to overlook your suspicions, either. Bah!

NO THIRD TERMS.

The question of third terms was of no political importance in the United States until the last year or two. It was understood that a President in his second term had no thought of four more years. He might be interested in choosing his successor or he might be without interest even in that. The country accepted as a certainty that two terms were enough for any man in the White House. Candidates in the President's own party were busy in midseason of his second term and they never questioned the attitude of their chief with respect to himself. He would ride to the next inaugural, but it would not be his own third.

Now all this is changed. The renomination for the third term is regarded as the ambition of Mr. Roosevelt. All the New Dealers who are not available themselves are clamoring for it. Most of them are lightweight politicians or without any vote getting ability whatever. The only way they can get votes is to spend money and that requires no ability. It requires only the money. Some of the Democratic politicians who are New Dealers only for what is in it are third termers to save their own hides.

If the New Deal can control the Democratic national convention it will try to renominate Mr. Roosevelt and may succeed. He allows his place holders to talk of drafting him, although he could put a stop to that if it didn't please him. The third term has become a real political issue which may possibly have to be decided in the election. The demand for it comes out of a theory of indispensability which is entirely inadmissible and it proposes a scheme of long or permanent tenure which is more dangerous and obnoxious in these times than in any other.

The seizure of autocratic power has made much of the world a madhouse. Since 1933 there has been a continuing consolidation of power in Washington with the building up of a governmental class which Americans may justly fear. Governmental enterprises are spread all over the country into almost every activity of life and the political theory of the present government is to extend and tighten the controls over all sorts of private enterprise. One protection is limited tenure in office. If the third term tradition were broken down now and abandoned the autocracy of government would be increased. The people might not intend that at all, but they would find that by conceding the doctrine of indispensability they sacrifice one of their best guaranties of control of government by them.

The demand for a third term in the White House has brought the question of long tenure in office in disrepute for other elective offices, such as governor and mayor. Two terms are enough for a governor and two are enough for a mayor. Long continuance in office allows the incumbent to build up such a political machine that opposition in elections encounters almost insuperable difficulties. It runs into a professional army of pay rollers and profiteers who get out the vote. The politicians in office can keep themselves there. Third terms are not necessary for the welfare of the country, state, or the city. When a man wants such a continued tenure he reveals ambitions and purposes which the people would do well to stop before they have permitted the development of a political force they will have difficulty in controling.

GROUNDS FOR IMPEACHMENT.

On the basis of his extraordinary action in the Klakowicz case Municipal Judge McGarry should have been transferred from the Felony court while the investigation of his conduct by the Bar association was pending. It was charged by the state's attorney that Judge McGarry had placed Klakowicz, a confessed thief, on probation at the request of Ald. Rostenkowski and without consulting the prosecutor. The facts were, to say the least, suspicious, and Judge McGarry's conduct during and after the hearing was not calculated to allay any doubts regarding his fitness for passing on criminal cases. His removal from the Felony court was plainly merited.

He was not removed. He therefore had the opportunity on Friday to bring about another miscarriage of justice. A woman had been arrested, charged with luring a Florida farmer to a hotel room, giving him knockout drops, and robbing him of $160 and a $1,200 ring. The farmer went home, but following the arrest of the suspect returned to Chicago at his own expense to testify. The state's attorney suggested that a Bridewell sentence would be adequate, and in any event would save the Floridian the necessity of traveling back and forth to Chicago to appear before the grand jury and again at the trial.

Instead of accepting this proposal Judge McGarry said it must be the grand jury or nothing and turned the prisoner loose "for lack of prosecution." The account of the trial leaves the impression that the judge was far more interested in pursuing his quarrel with the state's attorney's office than in seeing that justice is done.

Such a man has no place on the bench hearing criminal cases or any other kind. To say the least, he lacks the judicial temper. In the circumstances, Gov. Horner would have the force of public opinion behind him if he included in his call for a special session of the legislature suggestion that Judge McGarry be removed by impeachment.

DEATH OF A NEWSPAPER.

The suspension of publication of the daily Herald and Examiner has been rumored frequently in recent months and now it has taken place. In consequence, THE TRIBUNE becomes the only morning newspaper of general circulation to be published daily in Chicago. It is a position which we did not seek and which occasions anything but a feeling of satisfaction.

THE TRIBUNE has survived a great many competitors, but it has not suppressed a rival by purchase nor has it merged with another newspaper in nearly eighty years. Within living memory at least ten morning newspapers in Chicago have given up the ghost. Among them were the Times, the Herald, the Morning News, the Record, the Times-Herald, the Record-Herald, the Inter Ocean, the Chronicle, the Globe, and the Examiner. They went out of business for various reasons, but never as a result of our intervention, direct or indirect.

In recent months many daily newspapers in many sections of the country have been forced to suspend. Nearly eighty of them have folded up or merged with competitors since June, 1937. At least thirty-five, not including the Herald and Examiner, have disappeared in this calendar year. Among them were long established institutions like the Minneapolis Journal, which had been in existence for sixty-two years when it was bought by the Minneapolis Star.

The disappearance of so many enterprises has entailed a great deal of privation and suffering. It has meant unemployment for an army of reporters, editors, printers, pressmen, engravers, stereotypers, drivers, accountants, and clerks, to mention only a few of the many types of skill which find employment directly in newspaper production and distribution. It has meant, in addition, a reduction of the demand for paper and ink, for power and fuel, for railroad, telegraph, telephone, and trucking services. It can safely be said that thousands of families whose members may never have heard of the Herald and Examiner, the Minneapolis Journal, or any of the other publications which have recently disappeared will suffer from the destruction of the market for their goods and labor. The assembling of the stuff of which a newspaper is made begins thousands of miles from the scene of publication and all along the line men earn their living preparing and moving these materials to their destination.

There is no mystery about the causes of the high mortality rate. Some of them are more or less peculiar to the publishing business. For example, the prices of paper and of most of the other raw materials of a newspaper have risen sharply in recent years. Between 1933 and 1938 the price of print paper advanced about 25 per cent. Wage rates in the newspaper trades have also risen, in Chicago between 8 and 33 per cent. With good business these added costs might have been supportable, but with fair or poor business such as these years have seen the added burden was crushing.

Even so, the owners of unsuccessful newspapers might have continued them provided there was reason to believe that when business turned for the better the losses could be recouped. The Herald and Examiner lost money for years, but was kept alive in the hope that its fortunes would change for the better. That hope while it lasted was sufficient to safeguard the livelihood of many hundreds of employés over a long period, but in recent years even that hope has been taken away. The owner of an enterprise now knows that if he loses money the loss is his; if he makes money the government will take so large a proportion of it in taxes that he can never expect to recover the sums lost in the bad years. Hope has been destroyed and with it the jobs of a host of men and women.

The Herald and Examiner is merely one of many businesses which have fallen victim to the antagonism of the New Deal toward private enterprise. The planners and schemers in Washington have added greatly to the burden and risk of doing business, with the result that only the strongest and most successful can have any expectation of survival.

FAMOUS VICTORY.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

By splitting his court reform proposals into seven sections President Roosevelt claims success on six minor points and ignores defeat on the one central and paramount proposal—enlargement of the court to bring it under the political control of the executive. This defeat the President evades by declaring that "the precise method" which he recommended was not adopted, but that the Supreme court has definitly become liberal, as is shown by criticisms of its decisions by conservative lawyers. He fell down as a rainmaker, but it rained anyway!

Actually, of course, Mr. Roosevelt could have had the same justices who now please him without attempting to "reform" the court at all. All the new justices were appointed to fill vacancies created by death or retirement. These vacancies would have occurred regardless of Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to change the court. Indeed, it is possible that at least one more of the "old order" justices would have retired had Mr. Roosevelt not made his extraordinary proposal. The other recommendations made by the President—earlier retirement, additional judges in the lower courts, the right of the government to intervene in cases involving constitutionality, etc.—would have been accepted by congress without incident. Even those who like to believe that Mr. Roosevelt's court bill frightened some of the older justices into a panicky liberalism must concede that even this highly debatable view is unimportant compared to the fact that, by virtue of death and retirement, Mr. Roosevelt has been able to reconstitute the Supreme court.

In short, Mr. Roosevelt might better have waited for the actuarial eventualities to "reform" the court for him, as they have done. He would have had the court, as he has it now, and he would have had it without splitting the Democratic party from top to bottom and exciting a deep distrust and alarm throughout the country. Without his superogatory effort to control the Supreme court Mr. Roosevelt might still be the master of congress and not be faced with a determined hostility in the legislature and increasing loss of confidence among the people. In short, the "victory" pointed to by Mr. Roosevelt was not exactly a famous one.

TIME FLIES.

The landlord was making one more attempt to collect rent from his roomer.

After the tirade, the poet spoke up with: "Why, sir, you ought to pay me for living here. In a few years' time the people will be looking up at this miserable attic and saying: 'That's where Miller, the poet, used to live.'"

"Well, they needn't wait all those years," answered the landlord. "If you don't pay me by 11 o'clock they can say it tomorrow."—Toronto Globe.

CHICAGO HAS EVERYTHING?

If the naval architect and retired army officer who has spoken in favor of the destruction of the Fort Dearborn replica gets his wish, this column has another civic duty for him to perform.

The Chicago Association of Commerce is endeavoring to promote the city's reputation with an issue of "stickers" for letters. These ornamental bits of propaganda carry a design of skyscrapers in the background and Fort Dearborn in the foreground. Beneath this picture is the motto: "Chicago Has Everything."

The critic who points to certain inaccuracies in the plan and construction of the synthetic fort on the lake front is apparently too much of a perfectionist to permit such advertising to circulate without correction, if "that thing," as he calls it, is demolished. Therefore we would assign him to the small task of causing these stamps to be surcharged:

"Except Fort Dearborn."

The city that fails to dramatize itself—past, present, and future—will lose its fame and its fortune.

* * *

Those feathery-leafed young trees that have been planted profusely along the Gold Coast and such tributary streets as Elm and Cedar are the honey locust, alias three-thorned acacia. "A handsome shade and ornamental tree," say the arborologists.

SONG OF AN OLD TABLE.

A derelict! Cast out by those I served
So faithfully. My ample board had known
This friend, that dearer one; had felt their warmth
Of welcoming. Now stand I here alone.

When changes came and they were wanting room,
I served as desk and table eagerly;
Forgot my quaking limbs, enfeebled frame
And gained a new, a prouder dignity.

For wings that soared about the fabled Nine
Were circling near. I came to know the sweat
Of lyric birth, to know its joy; to aid
The sonnet and the gayer triolet.

What matter then if I am cast aside,
An alien here! Each fiber of me still
Is a rough sounding reed to songs I helped Create. Part mine, the labor and the skill!

Mary Catherine Brennan.

When Hoofers Write History.

"The Wizard of Oz"—not the current movie but the musical comedy which was its source—began its career at the Grand Opera house in Chicago on June 16, 1902, and ran all summer. So what?

Only this: Fred Stone, who rose to fame in it, states in the biographical data he supplied to "Who's Who in the Theater" that he was in "The Wizard of Oz" in 1903. This was the year of the New York engagement.

The "base line" of all theatrical records appears to be in New York. If there was a preceding Chicago engagement, that fact is usually omitted. After a lifetime of chasing theater dates we are getting pretty sick of this condition.

"The Wizard of Oz" was born and bred in Chicago. It was produced by Fred Hamlin, with Chicago capital. It was based upon the juvenile stories of L. Frank Baum, a Chicago writer, whose books were published by the Chicago firm of Reilly & Britton. Its composer was Paul Tietgens, who lived in Evanston. Its librettist was Glen McDonough, the only non-Chicagoan in the lineup.

But for the Chicago engagement of "The Wizard of Oz" Fred Stone would have spent the rest of his life as a vaudeville hoofer. Yet when he gave "Who's Who" the dope on his career he omitted Chicago in favor of New York.

The Class in Editorial Writing.

When the Great Northern theater opened on Monday, Nov. 9, 1896, both the Inter Ocean and the Times-Herald greeted it with effusive editorials. One of them contained this fatuous example of hyperbole:

"Paris has the Théâtre Français. It will be a fine feather in our municipal cap if Chicago acquires the first theater in America. The Paris of America will then justly be our title."

Floyd Howard Ashley.

PRATTLE OF SUMMER BOARDERS.

The city folk that summer on our farm
Have much to say of "peace" and "pastoral charm."
They prattle endlessly with rosy words
Of our delightful apple pies and curds:
And how "Utopian" our "simple life,"
So free from "care," "exactitude" and "strife."
But my dad says that he can't stand such lugs—
"Just let 'em wage a war on tater bugs."

And then they say, "It surely is a dream;
There couldn't be such wonderful thick cream;
So blest are we to have such gifts as these Showered like apples from Hesperides."
But my dad says that they would change their tune
And he rather thinks that they would change it soon,
"If they put forth with milking stool and pail
To get switched 'cross the eyes by some cow's tail."

Earle W. Carter.

A Chicagoan at Montauk Point, 1898.

Gen. Joe Wheeler's son drowned while in bathing. President McKinley and Secretary of War Alger paying visit to the camp; the look on the President's face when he saw a pile of 500 pine board coffins stacked up alongside the railroad station. . . . Helping to carry Gen. Shafter from the boat to the ambulance; he weighed 386 pounds. . . . Teddy Roosevelt's farewell to his regiment: "This is our last night in camp. Tomorrow we return to the mainland to be greeted with cheers from the citizens of New York. Tomorrow we will be heroes and then quickly forgotten by those same people, but we must never forget our service together or the dependents left behind by our deceased comrades."

IT RUNS IN THE FAMILY.

Behold in me the apogee
Of melancholy solemn;
I hit or miss with squibs like this;
The wife's stuff heads the column!

Burt Broderick Schulkins.

If England and France win, will there be another treaty of Versailles, and then will the world have to go through the same ordeal twenty years later? If Germany wins, ditto? The prospect becomes slightly monotonous.

GELATIN IN MUSCLE FATIGUE.

ARE you tired constantly? Or do you suffer at some period of the day with an overwhelming consciousness of fatigue akin to prostration? Facing such a situation, the first thing one should do is to make sure that the meals are adequate and that sufficient rest and sleep are secured. But even with all of these factors properly adjusted, muscular debility—drooping of the eyelids, for example—may be noted. A visit to the physician may disclose the malady known as myasthenia gravis in which there seems to be some break in the connection between the nerve impulses and the contracting fibers. While the message is dispatched in good time, it fails to reach the power plant. Of course it is always well to search for the presence of some systemic disease. One of the prominent signs of slowly advancing tuberculosis may be an o'erweening sense of exhaustion.

Should the difficulty, however, be ascribed to myasthenia a number of remedies are available. Some years ago Boothby and others suggested that glycocoll—the simplest of the amino acids—would be of value. Many victims of this ailment, treated with this substance, responded favorably and it has now come to be a part of the recommended management. In addition, ephedrine also was found to exert a beneficial effect. Occasionally these patients do well on a combination of these chemicals. As a part of Boothby's observations he learned that an ounce or two of glycocoll would banish languor with fair rapidity.

Recently it was pointed out that commercial gelatin contains about 25 per cent of glycocoll and an estimate of the volume of work that can be done under its influence has been made. A stationary bicycle was equipped with a small dynamo and the current thus generated was measured. Ten persons—six men and four women—were used as subjects and a considerable quantity of the unflavored material—from one and a half to two ounces—was fed daily in addition to the regular diet. It was mixed with orange and lemon juice and was swallowed before it had a chance to swell. No distress was experienced from the rather large portions. Under the régime more labor could be performed for longer intervals. In fact, the increase varied from 37 to 240 per cent over the routine output.

Gelatin has been regarded as an excellent food accessory, particularly because fruits, vegetables, and other edibles can be molded therein. But no one could survive for long on this dish alone. It is not a complete source of nourishment, because it lacks certain constituents. Furthermore, it has the power of absorbing a great bulk of water; but it is easily digested and assimilated and the glycine part is a useful energizer.

While the dose employed in these experiments — two ounces — was probably fixed arbitrarily, no one of us would choose to take this much daily except as a matter of necessity. A single serving [made with water] would supply but a fraction of the needed amount. The ordinary package of gelatin contains four envelopes with a total weight of about one and one-third ounces. It would require one and one-half small cartons per day to meet the quota utilized in the studies.

There is every reason to believe, however that a more generous use of the flaky, undissolved product mixed with orange juice or similar fluid will add somewhat to one's endurance. As far as is known there is no deleterious reaction upon the nervous system. The chances are that there is storage of glycocoll within the liver. At any rate, the suggestion is offered that it has some value in combating that "all gone" feeling provided disease is not responsible. It makes no difference whether the product is pink, red, blue, or brown. Choose your favorite shade.

LIKES THEM RAW.

Mrs. R. writes: Is it all right to give my son one raw egg a day? He likes them best that way.

REPLY.

Why not? An eggnog—a delectable food for invalids—consists of raw eggs beaten up in milk.

FLAXSEED POULTICE.

J. J. writes: What is the value of flaxseed? I have a friend who uses it for neuritis.

REPLY.

He probably employs it as a poultice to ease pain. Equal benefits may be obtained from any type of warm application.

O. K. IF YOU CAN DO IT.

N. G. writes: Is it harmful to the health to sleep in iron curlers?

REPLY.

Who wants to sleep in irons? Your scalp should object. No harm if you can endure the torture.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

FILING OF WILL.

Chicago, Aug. 18 [Legal Friend of the People].—My father married about forty-five years ago. When I was 5 years of age my mother died. Shortly after my father married again [a widow with three children]. Later two sons were born of this marriage and I left home at the age of 13. I married in 1925 and my father passed away in March of 1939. I received no inheritance.

1. I was refused permission to see his will [2], so I am taking it for granted my father willed everything to my stepmother.

3. Isn't there a law saying one-third of the estate should go to his first children, namely, myself and brother and sister? Being his first born I believe we should be entitled to our fair share of his estate.

A. B.

1. You can notify her that unless she files the will in the Probate court where you can examine it you will take steps to have statutory penalties assessed against her.

2. The fact that she is unwilling to show it to you is some indication the other way, in other words, is some indication that the will made a gift to you.

3. No. A parent can disinherit his children. If, however, you can satisfy a court that the will was produced by undue influence you could have it set aside.

A JOB FOR MR. ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Why does the President neglect to stop the war between the C. I. O. and A. F. of L.? He has some rights here, but absolutely none in dictating the policies in Europe. Call Lewis and Green in session and stay with them till the war is over. Then he would not have any time to interfere in Europe.

DR. A. A. HANSON.

AN EX-CONVICT'S TROUBLES.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—How long does a man once released from prison pay for being an ex-convict? Two years ago I was discharged after completing a 1 to 5 year sentence thinking that was the end of a horrible dream. I was mistaken; it seems to be only the beginning. How to exist without jeopardizing my freedom is now the problem. Months of looking for honest work with always the answer of, "Sorry, nothing open now," if I let them know of my past.

I finally found a place with a downtown house employing hundreds of people only to be told after one year of work that they could not use me. [They found out about my past.] The second attempt was shorter. The job lasted three months. The third only three weeks. The answer was always the same, "We have nothing against you and I wish it was in my power to keep you on but the rules of the house say no." So another payoff comes and I am out again.

THE TRIBUNE prints that half the crimes are committed by repeaters. Do you wonder why? They have to eat to live, too. So why not give us a chance?

S. S.

A PAIN IN THE NECK.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Of all the injustices heaped upon radio listeners, broadcasting the night baseball games over several stations tops the list. We are not all fashioned after the same pattern; our likes and dislikes vary. Most of us must toil to earn our daily bread, and we get the monotonous drone of radio announcers repeating the same thing over and over, Sunday and Saturday afternoons, and now, to cap the climax, in the evening.

Any present day radio set can pick up any one of the several stations which broadcast the ball games, so why monopolize the air?

Since "music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," let's have some music to soothe our toil worn nerves.

Our national game has become a pain in the neck. EMBA.

PATHS FOR CYCLISTS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I don't like the way Mrs. K. called the autoists road hogs. The bicycle rider is just as big a hog, riding two and three in a row. If it wasn't for the autoist the bicycle rider wouldn't have the good roads to ride on today. It was the autoists who built them with high license fees.

This is the way the bicycle riders can build paths to ride on: Pay a license fee each year. Don't try and burden the general taxpayers any more, as they have more than their share now and so has the autoist. F. H.

WOULD PRAYER HELP?

Chicago, Aug. 24.—As one who believes that prayer can accomplish that which treaties cannot do, I suggest that Christians everywhere set aside a day of prayer for Hitler and petitioning that he be guided in doing the right thing in this great crisis. A. A. GREENLEAF.

FINDS LIFE GUARDS LACKING.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Will somebody in the Lincoln park offices please request their so-called life guards to use a little intelligence while on the job?

The other afternoon I was out sailing with a friend directly east of Webster avenue, where sand is being pumped by a large boat. My friend complained of feeling bad suddenly and I headed toward shore, the shortest and only place for me to go.

But a life guard starts waving his arm: "Get back out on the lake." [You can find him sitting high and mighty about ten feet from the ground.] Soon comes life guard No. 145, to whom I explained that I wished to stop for a few minutes, as my friend is not feeling so well. "Sorry," he says, "no boats are allowed on the beach; you'll have to go back out and go to the third section down." This means that my friend must suffer because I am forced to go back out on the lake.

I know that one cannot go joy riding among people swimming in deep water, but send your life guards out on the lake once and they will find motorboats as well as any other craft come at their fastest speed to help you no matter how slight the difficulty. This is my second experience. The first time our so-called life guard was off duty but in a park district boat. It was useless for me to ask him for a short tow; he, too, sent me four blocks up the line during a storm in 1938.

I shall appreciate if THE TRIBUNE will explain to these boys the meaning of the word "life guard." J. S.

DANZIG A SMOKE SCREEN.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Danzig is a smoke screen. The real objective of Germany is Upper Silesia, whose wealth of coal she needs for her industry. As we all know, soon after the signing of the treaty of Versailles, a plebiscite was decided upon by the allied powers, which was to determine whether Upper Silesia was to remain German or become Polish. In spite of the fact that 80 per cent of the population voted in favor of Germany, the league of nations handed this section over to Poland in the hope, no doubt, of further weakening Germany economically. RALPH BRUCKER.

DID BELONG TO HUNGARY.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Your press service again falls into the stupid habit of writing misleading information when it says that "Ruthenia was in former Czecho-Slovakia and now has been occupied by Hungary."

How can any one write such absurd news? Until 1919 there was neither a "Ruthenia" nor "Czecho-Slovakia." Both names were then manufactured by sly boulevard politicians, such as Benes and Kramarz, Czech "experts," at the so-called peace conference.

Portions of land from Poland, Austria, and Hungary were stolen and tied together like knots of string; then sanctimoniously blessed as "Czecho-Slovakia," which was then divided into five provinces: Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia, Slovakia, and Ruthenia. The last two are in reality an integral part of northern Hungary, having been such for a thousand years. "Ruthenia," as you would call it, in reality are the centuries-old Hungarian counties of Maramaros, Boreg, Ung, Zemplen, etc. Don't your writers believe in a thousand year-old history, such as that of Hungary?

MEDITATOR.

CONCERTS IN GRANT PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—My compliments to Mayor Kelly and James C. Petrillo, park commissioner, for the splendid series of summer concerts in Grant park. These concerts place Chicago in the forefront as the music center of the nation, if not of the world.

My only complaint is the lack of cooperation between the program makers of each organization. The failure to provide for a central clearing house for numbers to be performed has frequently resulted in a duplication of the same composition as many as three times in a single week. B. J.

POLAND AND TESIN AREA.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Last year Poland had a chance not only to save its own country but Czecho-Slovakia also when Dr. Benes requested the Polish government to permit the passage of Russian soldiers across Poland. However, Poland refused and sent their own soldiers to occupy Tesin district instead. For such temporary gain the whole independence of Poland is at stake now!

OTTO SEDLAK.

With Europe on the brink of war, acts of government here and abroad take on new significance . . . affect immediately the interests of Americans.

Probably at no time in history has each day's news been of such vital and immediate importance to the individual. Now, more than ever before, it is to your interest to watch with the Chicago Tribune's experienced news gatherers.

To give you first-hand accounts of the happenings and trends at the national capital, the Tribune maintains its own Washington staff of reporters. Time and again their dispatches have been first to report the facts about vital matters high in public interest.

They get the news first because they do not wait for it to come to them. They follow no easy routine of official press conferences and rehash of publicity handouts. They dig for the truth—and the Tribune prints it.

To keep you informed of the fast-crowding developments abroad, the Tribune likewise maintains its own staff of Americar born and American trained news gatherers in Europe.

Despite propaganda, censorship and threat of expulsion, they get the news and report it from the American viewpoint.

So that you may be kept informed, the Tribune spares no expense to gather and print the news of every important event and trend at home and abroad. To keep abreast of world conditions which affect your vital interests, read the Chicago Tribune.

Woolen Socks Reach Knees of College Girls

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

The college girls ought to throw back their heads with a new feeling of importance. The whole town is turned over to them. Store windows are giddy with the noisy plaids and bright colors of school clothes; newspaper advertising and fashion columns are full of these smart young fashions that make all of us wish we were of school age.

There are new long wool socks for these bright youngsters to wear with their cashmere sweaters and their short flared skirts. "Long wool socks" sounds just a little prehistoric without the further explanation that they are the newest item for the school wardrobe of the girl who wears sports clothes as they should be worn.

Little wool anklet socks have been popular for years and will continue to be this season. But these new longer editions are sure to crowd the hero bench a little. They have an elastic top that grips the slender leg just below the knee.

I might add that the legs that wear these socks really should be quite slender. You see, they are made of a fairly heavy wool, and they have that coarse handmade effect. The ones in stock now are white which also adds to their visibility, and appears to give a wider curve to a not-too-slim limb. Most 16 year old legs, however, don't have such worries.

Another style in addition to the slight pattern in the knitting stitch itself has Tyrolean embroidery of red flowers with green leaves climbing up the shin bone. Even more youthful . . . more eye-taking . . . and more bewitching.

In a week or two there will be another style and other colors. This will be a heavy cable stitch design in solid colors including white, tan, brown, and the like.

All are English importations.

Younger Set Prepares to Be Off to School

BY JUDITH CASS.

STORE windows filled with clothes to take to school or college are the center of attraction right now to the hundreds of boys and girls who are preparing for their first big adventure outside of the family circle. Four future Lake Forest belles are comparing notes on what they will take to Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass. They are Lucia Winston, Helen Priebe, Diana Prosser, and Marjorie Mitchell.

Four other subdebutantes—Barbara Straw, Marion Carry, Betty Peabody, and Jean Scharin—will enter the Ethel Walker school in Simsbury, Conn. Two more former classmates at the Bell school in Lake Forest, Jere Manierre and Ann Porter, are going to Chatham Hall, in Virginia, where they can ride horseback all winter.

Also entering Miss Hall's will be Mary Mabbatt, who has completed one year at Ferry Hall, in Lake Forest. Two of her classmates, Olive Robbins and Joan Potter, will go to Chatham Hall next year as juniors.

Others Going to French and Canadian Schools.

Marion Peter and Mary Garraway are going farther afield to school. The former plans to attend the Cours Maintenon, at Cannes, on the French Riviera, after going that far around the world with her mother, Mrs. William F. Peter, and older sisters, Miss Sylvia and Miss Phyllis Peter. European developments may change all the Peters' plans, of course. The Saville G. Garraways' daughter will enter the Bishop Strachan school in Toronto, Ont.

Florence Curtis and Dora Mae Law are out west with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Law Jr. The former will go east to school this fall. Dora Mae will spend at least one year at Ferry Hall.

Sheila Kelley, the L. Thomas Kelleys' daughter, will enter the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y. Jean Scharin's older brother, Howard, is studying at the Ecole Alpine in Switzerland, where he will spend another year, specializing in German, before entering Princeton university. Their mother is Mrs. J. Hippach U. Scharin of Evanston.

A Whirl at the Fair; Then Off to Classes.

James Seaverns and Henry Connors are entering the Taft school, at which Henry's brother, Thomas, also is a student. Kenneth Morton will enter the Kent school. He and his parents, the Wirt Mortons, are going east just before Labor day for a whirl at the New York fair before Kenneth goes off to school.

The Alexander H. Revells' son, Alexander, will go to the Hill school. Baylies Tilden is entering Lawrenceville.

Marjorie Mitchell's parents, the Clarence Mitchells, are at their California home, so she probably will go east from there. Helen Priebe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Priebe, are expecting Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fargo Jr. to come from New York for a visit next month. Mrs. Fargo and Mrs. Hathaway Watson now are on a cruise together.

Kultchar-Stout Wedding Date Set for Sept. 2.

Miss Mary Huntington Kultchar and Clare Charles Stout have chosen Sept. 2 as their wedding date. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock in the First Methodist chapel in Evanston and will be followed by a reception in Glenna hall.

Miss Kultchar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Frank Kultchar of New York, will have her sister, Elizabeth Andree, as maid of honor. Her younger sister, Henrietta, and her cousin, Miss Frances Morgan Armstrong of Hampton, Va., will be the bridesmaids.

Miss Kultchar, her sister, and her fiancé arrived from the east yesterday. Her parents and grandmother, Mrs. Richard Kultchar, are expected by the middle of the week. Dr. and Mrs. Paul Starr of Winnetka are giving a supper for their niece on Friday, after the wedding rehearsal, at the Beach club in Winnetka.

Miss Kultchar will wear a veil which was worn by her aunt, Mrs. E. Royce Armstrong of Evanston. It will be trimmed with old lace belonging to her grandmother.

Mr. Stout, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stout of Minneapolis, Minn.,

Holiday Memorabilia.

Home again, with the scenes and events of an eastern holiday unreeling in retrospect like a movie in technicolor. A visit with friends in the Berkshires of deep, lovely valleys and mountain ranges. Historic Lenox, enriched by memories of the days in the last century when Hawthorne, Longfellow, Holmes, Beecher, Channing, and Fanny Kemble inaugurated a literary and social tradition. Tanglewood, between Stockbridge and Lenox, where Hawthorne wrote Tanglewood Tales. The Melville house at Pittsfield where Moby Dick was written. Historic Court Hill, scene of many court sessions and meetings in the years leading to the revolution, the family summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Winnetka.

The Berkshire Symphonic festival amid green trees at Tanglewood, with Koussevitsky conducting the Boston Symphony. Thornton Wilder, who is playing in his Our Town in summer stock near by a rapt listener; Carleton Smith, critic and lecturer; Nazimova in a box; Mrs. James E. Finan, formerly of Chicago, with a bevy of English aunts and cousins; Mrs. Arthur Kroch with her mother, Mrs. Alfred Granger, and other old friends seen at intermission.

A visit to the Stockbridge summer theater where Dennis King was playing in Petticoat Fever. Owen Johnson of Stover at Yale fame in the audience. A morning visit to orchestra rehearsal where Koussevitsky, in shirt sleeves, was putting the men through Stravinsky's Sacre du Printemps. The picnic he gave the orchestra, and, after a talk by Carleton Smith the superb singing of Dorothy Maynor, hailed as a new musical find.

A motor trip in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island, and the rugged scenery of the Cabot trail. And finally a few days of rest on Cape Cod, lying all day long on a white beach with the sound of the surf soporifically singing.

Home again to the city that is the best summer resort of all, with its magnificent lake shore panorama and its miles of green park.

Home to dear Chicago—to find that the traffic officer at Ohio and Michigan was comfortably directing traffic in his shirt sleeves, his coat neatly hung on a hanger hooked on the center of the stop light post. Home to find that in line with the changing of holiday dates, a citizen had held a New Year's eve party, complete with serpentines, hats, and horns, the preceding evening.

The best story to greet us was about a reporter, new to Chicago, who was assigned to do a story on Nobel prize winner Arthur Holly Compton. He knew the name but was a little hazy about the background.

"O, yes," he said after the introduction." I know you. Didn't I read something about your mother this summer?" [Mrs. Compton was chosen as the "representative American mother" last June.]

Catholic Benefit Dance Planners Meet Tonight

Good morning!

Women may well take off their hats—or what passes for 'em—to Elsa Maxwell. Against odds that would have floored the majority of us girls, she has proved herself a gay, gallant and triumphant warrior. She has secured a prominent place for herself in the hall of interesting personalities, and, because she believes in doing all things well, has not fallen down as a screen scribe.

"Hotel for Women," written by Elsa, is reminiscent more of "Stage Door" than "Grand Hotel," but suggestive of both. She has chosen for her background a New York hostelry for women, taken, as her principal character a country girl, whose rise and fall are swift in the circle of metropolitan sophisticates, and, as light and shade, utilized the life stories of a myriad other young women, who, like her, call the hotel for women their home.

Linda Darnell, a newcomer, plays the country girl. She has the earmarks of both amateurishness and great talent. And she's lovely to look at. As Marcia, she becomes a model, famous and fêted—a model who never loses her head, never goes wrong, and, in the end, flies a-homing to the arms of the young architect whom she's come to New York to marry in the first place.

Ann Sothern plays a slightly shopworn charmer, hard-headed but good hearted. Lynn Bari is a maid who loves too well. James Ellison depicts the architect, who learns that there are things greater than ambition. John Halliday is effective as a middle-aged bee who has the peculiar experience of being stung by a flower.

Elsa Maxwell? Well, she's the mamma. That is, she's the broad bosom, the sage advice, the reliable bulwark with whom the girls park their worries. Because she's unshockable they can tell her anything. Because she's "regular" she never lets them down. And she's human and she loves them. Nice work.

Excellent cast throughout.

Splendid direction, neat dialog, and clever staging add their lure.

"Hotel for Women" isn't great, but it IS an interesting movie.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds, promoter of children's acts in the days before motion pictures, is attracted to the tenement flat of the Lichts by the singing of their little daughter, Josefa. Next day he calls with his wife and persuades the Lichts to let him take Josefa into his home and train her for the stage. Two older children, Lena and Eddie, live with the Reynolds. During a stage show Eddie's voice breaks and Josefa goes to his rescue, saves the act, and becomes famous overnight. Josefa is billed as Sheila Doone. Lena hides her envy and hatred of Sheila by pretended friendship. Backed by Producer Leica, Lena becomes a motion picture actress in the infant industry. With Lena's brief day waning Leica signs up Sheila. Lena loses a coveted rôle to Sheila. Lena forces Harry Larch, a leading man who falls in love with Sheila, to marry her and she retires from the screen. Her husband is accidentally drowned. Sheila helps Lena financially and depends on Lena for business advice. Lena finds a new attraction in Austin Birch, an actor. And Sheila becomes secretly engaged to Ronny Low, her new leading man. Austin Birch falls in love with Sheila and proposes to her. She tells him of her engagement to Ronny. Lena's hopes of marrying Austin are thwarted. Sheila and Ronny are married and buy a ranch, leaving most of the arrangements to Lena. The night Sheila's son is born Ronny loans Lena $2,500. Then Ronny is notified that his contract will not be renewed.

INSTALMENT XIX.

HURT PRIDE.

Ronny passed the letter across the table to Lena.

"The gate," he said.

"The dogs!" said Lena. "That's what you get for handing them a few millions on a platter."

"May I see, Ronny?" asked August.

"Of course you may. By now it's in the hands of the town crier."

August's dark eyes flashed indignantly.

"Isn't there any such thing as gratitude in this picture business?"

Both Lena and Ronny did their best to remember a case. But either there had never been one or they had never heard of it.

Ronny became what is known as a "free lance." In other words his agent hounded producers and casting directors and sometimes found work for him at this studio and that. But it wasn't steady work and his was no longer the kind of income that can be budgeted. Sheila's long layoff had been at her own costs, and although she was back at work on the tenth day after the baby's birth it was only just in time to relieve the cash shortage from which she and Ronny had begun to suffer.

Ronny kept a stiff upper lip and appeared to accept his fate with philosophy and a certain whimsical humor, but inwardly he chafed and fretted. Why hadn't he saved his money? Why had he burned it and made gift loans to everybody who told him a hard luck story?

He couldn't help thinking about the sums of money which he and Sheila had advanced to Lena. Lena seemed to be doing well, or said she was. Why didn't she begin to pay back? That last twenty-five hundred that she had got out of him the night of Junior's birth would come in mighty handy. But all such thoughts ended in a defeated shrug of the shoulders. A man can't ask a woman to pay him the money she owes him. "I am nothing but a ham actor," he thought, "living off a woman."

. . . . . .

Sheila's public was displeased with her. She was more beautiful than ever, and her performances were even more smooth and authoritative, but she should not have absented herself from the screen for so long. She should not have had a baby. She too slipped from her pedestal and fell. She couldn't believe it at first. Nobody could. Mama Licht was furious.

The drop from a joint income of six or seven thousand dollars a week to nothing a week was swift. Ronny and Sheila tried to talk business. But they couldn't make head or tail of their affairs without Lena's help. She was grand. Both agreed that she was grand.

"First off," said Lena, "I owe you two darlings a lot of money. I can't pay you now. But it won't be long. I have everything written down and the minute my ship comes in—I can just see her topsails now above the horizon—you'll get yours. I'm not going to talk gratitude. It makes my lips tremble. But I guess you two know how I feel about you. If it weren't for you two—I'd be—well, I'd be down and out."

"Forget it," said Ronny, and Sheila echoed the thought.

"I'm not your only debtor," Lena went on. "Some of the others will come across, if you ask them and they can. And others will give you the run around. That always happens. So let's forget about all that for the present and concentrate on quick assets."

"I ought to have several thousand in my savings account."

"That's in Nick Scudder's new bank?"

"I transferred it from downtown when you told me it was a good idea."

"The ranch isn't paid for, hang it, but Nick thinks he can sell it for enough to leave you with a nice equity."

"And if he can't?" asked Ronny.

"If you can't meet the payments, the people who hold the mortgage will foreclose."

"But we've sunk thousands and thousands in the property. Damn the public! Why in hell can't Sheila and I get work? We're just as good as we ever were."

"If we ever were good," smiled Sheila.

"When is your next payment due?"

"Some time next month."

"If you could meet that you would have six months leeway. The thing to do is to meet that payment somehow. Nick will help if I ask him to, and hope for a break."

"I'll write to Papa," said Sheila. "I'll ask him to send me some money instead of another diamond bracelet."

And so she did. But Papa Licht wrote back that, "things is not now so goot by me."

Sheila gathered that her father was in trouble of some kind or other. Mama Licht either didn't know just what the trouble was or wouldn't tell out of loyalty to her husband. But August offered a hint.

"Poor Papa," he said, "up against the barrier of language. He was tricked into doing something wrong. When he found that out he quit cold. I think he's lying low somewhere."

Meanwhile there were two producers in Hollywood, brothers, who had reached the end of their financial tether. They were flat. But they happened to own the rights to the device which made talking pictures possible. Al Jolson made the first effective talking picture and at the theater where it showed the patient, ardent ques were blocks long. Within a year the broke brothers were worth between five and thirty million dollars.

It would be cruel to name the public favorites who now began to fall in droves by the wayside. John Gilbert, the greatest of all favorites, crashed. His speaking voice was not in keeping with his daring and princely personality. And not many years later he died of a broken heart.

Actors who had learned the business of speech on the legitimate stage were haled to Hollywood almost in carload lots. And certain obscure screen actors who 'talked right' became famous. Others who had been favorites and slipped came back in glory.

Sheila and Ronny could have worked steadily in five or six pictures at once if it had been physically possible.

They earned more money than they had ever earned before, and were too busy to be easygoing and wasteful.

"Never again," was their watchword. But then you can't always say no to people who are walking the streets looking for work, especially if they've once had everything, and now look as if they might possibly blow their brains out if you did say no. Ronny and Sheila's right hands never did accurately know what their left hands were doing. But in spite of all their engaging foolishness their savings accounts in Mr. Scudder's Hollywood bank couldn't help growing.

The companies for whom they worked, worked them without letup.

"Capt. Singleton" was badly bungled in the making and there was a deluge of retakes. Ronny having complained of pains in the abdomen, walked on the set deadly white under his makeup and fainted. He was rushed to the hospital, although he protested, and said that he no longer felt any pain, where his case was diagnosed as a burst appendix.

will take his bride on a motor trip through the mountains of Virginia. They will be at home in Syracuse, N. Y., where Mr. Stout is in business.

Barbara Totman to Wed Way Thompson Sept. 16.

Miss Barbara Totman will become the bride of Way Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stanwood Thompson of Milbrook, formerly of Hubbard Woods, on Sept. 16. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 by the Rev. Leland Danforth in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Totman of Winnetka, and will be followed by a reception in the home.

After a month's wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. Thompson and his bride will be at home in the house which they have built near Barrington.

Miss Totman will have her younger sister, Patty, as maid of honor. The matron of honor will be her older sister, Mrs. Robert E. McDonald of Le Seuer, Minn. Miss Mary Laura Vance of Omaha, Neb.; Miss Grace Georgette Noee of Chicago, and Miss Joan Hoff of Auburn, Ind., all classmates of Miss Totman at Northwestern, will be among the bridesmaids. Miss Mary Trumbull of Winnetka, Miss Marion Farwell, and Miss Louise Blossom, both of Lake Forest, complete the list.

Mr. Thompson will have four brothers in the bridal party. Jacob will serve as best man. John, Howard Jr., and Benjamin, the latter from Nashville, Tenn., will share ushering duties with Robert McDonald, Paul V. Troup Jr. of Evanston, Arthur T. McIntosh of Barrington, and Elmer Rich and Stephen Harwood, both of Evanston and both classmates of the bridegroom at Dartmouth.

Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen Returning from England.

Benjamin C. Allen has had a cable that his wife has put ahead her sailing for home from England and hopes to embark on the Queen Mary on Wednesday. Mrs. Allen has been visiting their daughters, Mrs. Oliver C. Bryson and Mrs. Hugh M. Groves, and their families, in their English homes.

Mrs. Robert H. Gardner has had no word to indicate that her mother, Mrs. Samuel Douglas Flood, has changed her plan to remain in England for some time longer. Mrs. Flood had expected to join her son, Samuel Douglas Flood, later in the winter in Naples, Italy, where he is in the American consulate.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey M. Pollock and their two children are leaving today to spend three weeks at Jasper Park in Canada.

There are many guests every year at White Gates farm, the William S. Monroes' hospitable country home in Wayne, but none more welcome than the sister of the master, Mrs. William J. Calhoun. Consequently, every one was happy yesterday when she arrived from her home in China. Mr. Monroe had met his sister in San Francisco and together they had visited the fair and the Philip Patchins on the Monterey peninsula for a few days before coming east. The Monroes, of course, are going to try and persuade Mrs. Calhoun to stay away for a long time from her Peiping home, a small Buddhist temple which she has converted with exquisite taste into a residence.

I. Newton Perry Jr. is back at home for a brief visit with his parents and sister, Miss Sally, before returning to New Haven for his last year at college. He will not be continuing the course that has kept him busy for three years, however, for he has transferred to the School of Music at Yale university. He just has returned from a European tour with the Yale Glee club.

Young Mr. Perry will not leave Chicago until Sept. 17, for he must be here on the 16th when his band will play at Miss Helen Dick's debut in Lake Forest. Brewster Perry, the other son of the family, is in Manila with the other daughter, Mrs. Harold Kneedler. The date for his return is not set. The Kneedler family, though, will be coming to Chicago to visit next June.

Son Born in Evanston to the Howard Wolffs.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolff are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Tuesday in the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named William Frederick.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight is giving a luncheon tomorrow at the "900" for Mrs. Christian Schertz of New Orleans, who is visiting John C. Shaffer in Evanston. Mrs. Schertz is president of the Penwomen of New Orleans and also of the Little Theater association there.

Miss Marcia Jane Gifford has left to spend several weeks visting Miss Peggy Owen in Augusta, Me.

Should Child Get Paid for Chores? Writer Says 'No'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you think children should be paid for the work they do about the house or grounds? This is a question parents often ask me, and most often, I suspect, when they are having lots of trouble getting the chores done by their boys and girls.

Most of the things we ask our boys and girls to do to help us are things in the ordinary course of their lives: running errands, drying the dishes, chopping wood for the fireplace, mowing the lawn, scrubbing out the bathtub, setting the table, shelling the peas, going for milk and eggs when we're in the country or at camp, keeping their rooms in order, putting their toys away, or a dozen other things. To my mind, all these chores should be done as the children's share in or contribution to the life of the family.

If it is an extra duty involving an unusual amount of work or time, then they should do it from a natural desire to help their father or mother. I think it's a great mistake to pay the children for the chores they do for you. They really ought not to be allowed to feel that they do things for their parents for what they get out of it, that anything like that can be bought with money, that they can count on a material return for the obliging things they do. It tends to commercialize the relation between parents and children.

I believe children should have money, but in the form of an allowance—not wages. To have a regular allowance not only teaches them the value of money, but also gives them a School and soup making begin simultaneously.

Soup goes to school in a thermos bottle or stays at home to make the mainstay of that most convenient and complete of all lunches — soup, sandwiches, salad, and dessert. For greater nutritive value make it a cream soup.

Cream soups are simply an extremely thin and well seasoned white sauce to which pureed or chopped vegetables have been added. As for the vegetable, any canned, cooked, or leftover bit will do nicely. Anything goes in a soup kettle, and almost everything does.

You can make any cream soup after this basic recipe pattern. For a richer soup use top milk or part cream. Flavor will be stepped up if meat stock is substituted for 1 cup of the milk; or add 1 or 2 bouillon cubes to the liquid drained from the cooked vegetables.

BASIC CREAM SOUP RECIPE.

3 tablespoons butter, melted.
3 tablespoons flour.
2 cups vegetable pulp.
Salt, pepper and paprika, if desired.

Make a paste of melted butter and flour, and add milk, cooking slowly and stirring continually. When thickened, add vegetable and seasonings to taste. Serve with garnish of croutons, whipped cream, or parsley.

VARIATIONS.

1. Cream of carrot and mushroom: Cook 1 cup mushrooms in ½ cup water to which 1 bouillon cube has been added. Add with 1½ cups cooked carrots to creamed mixture.

2. Cream of green bean: Add 2 cups finely cut string beans, 1 tablespoon minced onion, and a dash of cayenne to creamed mixture. Serve with tablespoon of grated American cheese over each portion.

3. Cream of celery and almond: Use 1½ cups cooked chopped celery and ½ cup toasted almonds, chopped, and substitute meat stock for 1 cup of the milk.

4. Whole tomato: Cut tomatoes in quarters and cook gently until tender. Use about 2½ cups. Do not sieve.

It isn't too late in the season to plan a picnic, and since food plays such an important part in these outings, you'll want to see Mary Meade's booklet, "Let's Have a Picnic." The booklet is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents, or the booklet will be mailed to you for 5 cents in stamps.

Round Shoulders Haven't an Alibi; Start Exercising

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The tendency to be round shouldered is the sedentary worker's problem. The sedentary worker, bending over books, typewriter, or drawing board all day long, has some alibi. But the woman who has graduated from office into domestic life shouldn't be permitted the excuse. Nor, for that matter, should the office worker's alibi be taken for granted. She has trained herself to sit incorrectly, or her back wouldn't be rounded.

This subject of sitting is of prime importance to thousands and thousands of women, since the working day consists largely of sitting at a desk. You should sit well and firmly back on the chair seat, with the weight of your trunk supported by your hip bones and thighs, with your neck and spine in a straight line. You should be able to draw in and hold a deep breath without the slightest feeling of discomfort or restriction. And this we would urge the sedentary worker to do often during the business day.

Contract the abdominal muscles along with the deep breath taking. At first you may feel a little stiff, but gradually you'll get the trick of sitting up straight and turning out the work you do even more efficiently and with half the energy used.

Once in a morning and afternoon, at least, clasp the hands behind the back and stretch the arms backward. This will counteract the rounded shoulders and relieve the feeling of strain on the shoulders and arms. To relax the neck muscles, tilt the head backward and turn from side to side.

On the House

There are certain types of paint which are especially suited for fresh plaster walls. These paints are not expensive and two coats usually are sufficient. The paint can be applied shortly after the walls are plastered. Then, in six months or a year, the home owner can give his walls some fine oil paint surfacings, or paper them, or treat them—as he wishes.

Three Chapeaux for Autumn

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HATS.

With the aid of this one pattern you can make at least three hats for your fall and winter wardrobe. Sketched at the upper left is a pancake beret with a strap to hold 't to your curls in the back. A fluff of fur may be set atop the disc. The pillbox chapeau at the right is very Russian in feeling, and has classic simplicity. The dashing sports model at the lower left has a pointed crown, a moderately dipped brim, and a fetching feather. All these models are high fashion from Paris to California.

Style No. 3165 is designed for one headsize only, which you can adapt to your own measurements. Yardage requirements are specified on the pattern envelope.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

No woman with any appreciation of color harmony doubts the fashion wisdom of owning and using more than one lipstick shade. But for most of us the cost has been the stumbling block. A little stumbling block that today is firmly kicked out of the way with the advent of a little suede packet of three lipsticks, all lovely in texture and completely different in shade. This bears a price tag usually found on just ONE stick!

It's a wonderful idea, one that will do more to make it possible for women to enjoy a "lipstick wardrobe" than anything we ever dreamed of. The sticks are small, and the natural color suede packet into which they fit so snugly will take up no more room in your bag than a key case.

In this one clever container you can keep your three basic lipstick shades—and you can change your lipstick color as often as you change your costume colors. One of the shades is an exciting new one, a lively warm red created especially to wear with the greens, browns, and grays that are marked "important" for the coming autumn.

The second lipstick is in a vivid pink. You whip this one out when you wear pastels—and you'll find it pretty devastating under artificial light. The third shade in your little pack is a red with winey undertones—one of those beauties launched last year when wine fabric shades were smart as paint. This is a beautiful shade with blues and with the wine colors that are still fairly popular. And we stoutly maintain that it's a pretty color accent with black.

You'll want this trio of good little lipsticks—and when you see how pretty the shades and how low the cost you'll surely own them!

Grand for a children's birthday party, but almost as nice for an adult's is the clever new round stand for the birthday cake. It revolves slowly while it plays "Happy Birthday" in a concealed little Swiss music box. While the cake turns every one sings.

It is finished in white, is unornamented, and is not too expensive, considering the fact it is a music box.

Della Chiesa Generous with Songs at Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Vivian Della Chiesa, a tall and spectacularly good looking Chicago soprano, tossed songs and smiles generously around Grant park last night. The songs numbered thirteen, which is probably a record for the lake front concerts. The smiles ran into the hundreds.

Accompanied by the Walter H. Steindel orchestra and, later, by Mr. Steindel himself at the piano, Miss Della Chiesa offered something to delight almost every conceivable taste. There were operatic excerpts, cheery waltz songs, some fine folk music, and a couple of entries from that drear twilight land of the "semi-classics."

In "Annie Laurie," certainly the high point of the evening, the young soprano sang with such quiet splendor of tone and such excellent feeling for the phrase that even the stone Columbus at the south end of the field must have cocked a cold ear in appreciation.

Throughout the program Miss Della Chiesa revealed one after another the qualities which make her such a delightful artist. There was that tremendous aliveness, that readiness to ride a rising phrase [as in "Il Bacio" or "Tales from the Vienna Woods"] with all the zest and agility of youth. There was also that native rhythmic sense which made her handling of balanced periods [as in the Greig Norwegian dance] such an intoxicating experience for listener and singer both.

She also revealed, alas, the fact that in a forte her voice does not flow as generously as it did of yore, and that its texture is not as smooth. "Of yore" means three years ago this fall, when Miss Della Chiesa made her debut with the Chicago City Opera company. Also on the debit side of the Della Chiesa ledger is an increasing tendency to call in the quite unnecessary aid of gestures.

Mr. Steindel's great stature as a musician, which has often been discreetly hinted at in this column, was revealed so unmistakably last night in his directing and in his accompanying that the need for discretion has disappeared. Here is one of those rare natures capable of giving a momentary dignity even to the cheapest music. In the case of something authentically good, the results are nothing less than magnificent.

A perfect summer evening, capped by a moon as radiant and lovely as the soloist herself [if in quite a different way] drew an immense throng to the lake front.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Another one of those husband-wife fights, although in this case the two husbands were playing against the two wives. This was the very last hand of a thirty-six hand session, with the score extremely close, the wives being ahead some 200 points, and with a very desirable prize at stake.

"The atmosphere was tense. The husbands were East-West and the wives North-South.

"East, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

"East opened the bidding with a club. North-South bid spades and hearts, finally arriving at four hearts. At this point the writer, sitting West, pondered long and hard whether to pass and accept a nice vulnerable penalty, or double and have the opponents run to four spades, which he was quite sure they could make. It seemed the best strategy to pass, which I did. To my horror, however, partner then said 'five clubs'! I could have dropped a heavy weight on his head with keen satisfaction, but merely groaned as North briskly doubled. Result, down two, and the women gleefully won the pot of gold.

"My partner claimed the fault was all mine in not doubling four hearts, for then, if the girls had run to four spades, he would have doubled. Now, Mr. Culbertson, what would you have done, sitting East, when the four heart contract came up to you? Perhaps, in fairness to my partner I should say that I had given him one half hearted raise in clubs at the second round, hoping thereby to get the girls to go on with their bidding of hearts. Now don't you think my strategy in passing four hearts was the best decision?—L. R., Michigan."

No, I regret to say that I do not agree with the "strategy" of passing four hearts. After all, East had opened the bidding and presumably had defensive values. He was marked void of hearts which, in turn, strongly indicated length in spades, a supposition bolstered by the fact that East had not bid diamonds. Surely, if he had had a diamond club two-suiter, he would have mentioned the higher ranking minor suit at some stage. Thus, there should have been no doubt in West's mind as to East's ability to handle the spade suit if and when the opponents chose to run from a four heart double. It is true that occasions arise in which the opportunity to double seems just "too good to be true," and when discretion, in the form of a meek "pass," is by far the best strategy. This, however, was not one of those occasions.

I noticed with mixed feelings my correspondent's admission that he had given "one half hearted raise in clubs." What, I must ask, is a half hearted raise? Is it a raise given in a faltering, scarcely audible tone of voice? Tut, tut, my dear sir! Mind your ethics!

BECKMAN STOPS CHICAGOANS ON 7 HIT PITCHING

Only Three Get as Far as Second.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, who had swept four series in their home stand and were beginning to suspect they were invincible against all competition except the Yankees, met a tartar yesterday in one 32 year old William Beckman, of the lowly Philadelphia Athletics. The A's won, 2 to 0, and the Beckman fellow allowed no one to get to third base, and only three to second base.

The Sox made seven hits, but none was of extra caliber, and no two fell in the same inning until the eighth, when Pinch Batter Johnny Marcum and Joe Kuhel smacked a couple, only to have their boisterous behavior quashed by a double play. To aggravate the helplessness of the Chicago boys, Beckman didn't allow a base on balls. There was one error in the game, with two out in the seventh and the only trouble this caused was to let Eric McNair become one of the three Sox gents who reached second base.

Lee Weakens in Seventh.

Thornton Lee, making his second try for his twelfth victory, pitched shutout ball until two were out in the seventh inning. He allowed only five hits in his eight innings of endeavor, and Edgar Smith, who pitched the ninth, allowed only a single for the victors' total of a half dozen hits, one of which was for extra bases, a double by Dario Lodigiani in the eighth.

The first run, which was enough for victory purposes, bloomed from the second of two passes issued by Lee. With one out in the seventh inning, the big lefty passed Bob Johnson. Up to that point he had yielded only one hit, a single by Wally Moses in the fourth inning, but Frank Hayes bobbed up with hit No. 2, Johnson stopping at second. The situation seemed to be well in hand when Dick Siebert supplied the second out with a fly to Mike Kreevich. Bill Nagel, however, spoiled everything. He singled to left, scoring Johnson. Sam Chapman then flied to Larry Rosenthal.

Run Stopped at Plate.

The other run in the game got home after one run had been knocked off at the plate. Lodigiani led off with a double to left, and took third while McNair was throwing out Beckman. Moses then bounced one to Jack Hayes, and Lodigiani was out at home, Hayes to Tony Rensa. Moses then stole second and scored on Skeeter Newsome's single to center.

No member of the Sox was able to contribute more than one hit to the total. Luke Appling beat out an infield single in the second inning and Kreevich singled to left in the fourth. Rosenthal got an infield single in the fifth and Hayes led off the sixth with a single to right. McNair beat out an infield single in the seventh. Then came the aforesaid eighth inning singles by Marcum and Kuhel.

Sox Backed to Wall.

The outcome backed the Sox to the wall again in their fight to retain third place, which they now hold by a margin of a half game. It was the eighth victory of the A's over the Sox in eighteen games played and ended a six game losing streak for the seventh placers. It was the fifth success of the season for Beckman.

The Sox didn't have to writhe over a protracted period. It took them only an hour and a half to absorb their licking.

Along a Tree Lined Street.

Walking along a tree lined street
I met a woman one day;
She carried a basket but set it down
As I came along the way—
"I'd like to tell you," she said to me,
"How we like the things you write,
Somehow or other they seem to give
A body a new kind o' light."

Then she told of her son who had passed away
And how deeply that sting had bitten,
And of how a neighbor came in one day
With some little thing I had written;
There was, it seems, some thought in it
Which had brought her a ray of hope—
Some message which eased that mother's heart
On her way up Calvary's slope.

In the years I've been writing I've frequently had
Some friendly and kindly things said—
Little bouquets that were tendered
To the quick and not to the dead;
But no words I have heard spoken
So heartened me through and through
As those of the one who paused on the street
And said "God be good to you."

CUBS ENCOUNTER A DETOUR—LOSE PAIR TO PHILLIES

Harrell and Marty Beat Old Mates in 2d Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 27.—The lowly Phillies, whose sole mission in baseball is to give the raspberry to the Cubs, were in rare voice this afternoon. First they threw so many ear-splitting notes that they broke up the Chicagoans' pennant parade, which was about to get underway. Encouraged by that achievement the tail enders repeated it in the second half of a double-header, thereby shoving the 1938 champions to eight and one-half games from the National league lead. The scores were 4 to 3 and 3 to 2, making nine times the Phils have spanked the Cubs in sixteen battles.

The first game today was an affair between Bill Lee, the Cubs' biggest winner, and Walter Beck, who because of his friendliness toward enemy batters carries the label of "boom boom." The 1938 champions did no boom-booming to speak of. Neither was there much free hitting against the Cub stalwart, but luck did not give Bill much of a tumble. One run was entered against his performance in the opening inning because of a momentary brainstorm by Manager Gabby Hartnett and the three others scored in the fourth on four hits out of five yielded by the right handed giant after the first inning.

Marty Drives In Winning Run.

The outcome of the second game was doubly distressing for the Cubs because it revived memory of the deal for Claude Passeau, who also was in action, but lost to his former associates. Because of a single by Augie Galan, a triple by Hank Leiber, and later a single by Billy Herman in the wake of a pass, Passeau was pushed into a two run lead, an edge he lost in the sixth when Gus Suhr, the Pirate discard, punched a homer over the fence with one on base.

This deadlock remained intact until the ninth, when, with one out, Virgil Davis, whose single had driven in the tying and winning run in the first battle, singled again. Leiber attempted a shoestring catch, but the ball hopped past him so Davis went to second, where Jack Bolling took over the running. Ray Harrell, who accompanied Walter Higbe and Joe Marty here from Chicago in the swap for Passeau, and who held the Cubs to

Burke and Dudley Win Hagen's 25th Anniversary Tournament

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Billy Burke of Cleveland and Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, two 37 year olds who still can play a deal of golf, yesterday won the Walter Hagen anniversary tournament at the Midlothian Country club with a cumulative advantage of nineteen plus for the most unusual fairway and green competition Chicago ever has seen.

It was at Midlothian, twenty-five years ago, that Hagen won his first national open title.

Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., former national and western open title holder, and Harold [Jug] McSpaden, new Canadian open winner, teamed together to win second place from Byron Nelson, present national and western open champ, and Dick Metz of Mill Road Farm.

Second Pair 13 Behind.

Guldahl and McSpaden finished the four day, 126 hole round robin of seven matches with a final total of 6 plus, 13 behind the winners.

Final standing:
Ed Dudley-Billy Burke, plus 19, $575 each.
Ralph Guldahl-Harold McSpaden, plus 6, $425 each.
Byron Nelson-Dick Metz, plus 4, $375 each.
Walter Hagen-Gene Sarazen, minus 3, $325 each.
Tommy Armour-Jimmy Thomson, minus 5, $275 each.
Henry Picard-Johnny Revolta, minus 6, $200 each.
Paul Runyan-Horton Smith, minus 6, $200 each.
Denny Shute-E. J. Harrison, minus 9, $125 each.
Most birdies [51], Ed Dudley-Billy Burke, $100 each.
Low 18 hole score—Four teams tied at 62: Dudley-Burke, Shute-Harrison, Smith-Runyan, Nelson-Metz, $25 each player.

Burke Finishes in 31.

The victory of Burke and Dudley, who were 100 to 1 shots when the tournament began, was one of the most popular in the history of local golf. Burke, who was the last man to be invited, proved he is one of the most underrated swingers in the game. In working with Dudley to compile one of the most amazing scoring records in the modern game, the likeable Bill yesterday winged six birdies on the final nine by himself for a personal card of 31. Their total of birdies was 51, eight better than the 43 submitted by Guldahl and McSpaden.

Dudley himself fired the best personal card of the tournament, a brace of 32s, which gave him a 64, and lowered by two strokes the best previous effort, which was scored twice by McSpaden in earlier rounds.

Burke and Dudley went into yesterday's final two rounds with a total score of 10 plus, one better than Nelson and Metz, whom they met in the morning bracket. Bill and Ed weren't rated by the handicappers to beat this twosome, but soon adjusted that by romping in with a three up triumph which left them at thirteen plus and shoved Nelson and Metz back to 6 plus. In the afternoon they took on another team to be feared—Thomson and Armour—and really went to work, coming in 6 up on them for the points that gave them their ultimate 19.

Hagen, Sarazen Finish Well.

One of the most fitting triumphs of the afternoon was the 4 up decision registered by Hagen and Sarazen over Harrison and Shute. In that little chore Hagen fired his best round of the tournament, a 69, which almost kept pace with Gene's grand 67.

The last day was chock full of great golf. In addition to Burke's steady all-round play and spectacular chipping and putting, there was a thrust by Runyan at the 436 yard ninth in the afternoon. Paul holed out a typical Runyan spoon for an eagle two. Guldahl almost knocked in a pitching iron shot at the 310 yard eighteenth and on the same Thomson earned cheers by driving the green with a tremendous clout that sent the ball within sixteen feet of the cup.

Yesterday's results with best ball scores included:

MORNING ROUND.
Armour and Thomson [66] defeated Harm and Sarazen [69], 3 up.
Burke and Dudley [62] defeated Nelson and Metz [66], 3 up.
Runyan and Smith [64] defeated Guldahl and McSpaden [65], 1 up.
Picard and Revolta [64], defeated Shute and Harrison [65], 1 up.
AFTERNOON ROUND.
Runyan and Smith [64] finished even with Picard and Revolta [65].
Hagen and Sarazen [64] defeated Shute and Harrison [68], 4 up.
Dudley and Burke [64] defeated Armour and Thomson [70], 6 up.
Guldahl and McSpaden [64] defeated Nelson and Metz [68], 3 up.

GIANTS SHUFFLE STARTING LINEUP FOR ALL-STARS

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Superior Wis., Aug. 27.—On the eve of departure from this training paradise, Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants, and his assistants tonight faced unexpected complications in the selection of a starting lineup for the Chicago All-Star game.

Only two more workouts remain before the Giants enter Soldiers' field Wednesday night on the most important assignment in the team's history. One will be held here tomorrow morning, the other in Chicago on Soldiers' field Tuesday night. Neither will be strenuous enough to alter greatly the impressions various candidates for starting rôles already have made on coaches.

Changes Are Necessary.

Originally it was Owen's plan to start the same eleven that led the way in last year's drive to a national league championship. This included Jim Poole and Jim Lee Howell at the ends; Ed Widseth and Ox Parry at tackles; Orville Tuttle and Johnny Dell Isola, guards; Capt. Mel Hein, center; Ed Danowski, quarter back; Hank Soar and Ward Cuff, half backs; and Leland Shaffer, full back.

Injuries and unimpressive performances in scrimmages have necessitated some changes and made others advisable. As the Giants stepped through their last vigorous drill this

FULL BACK, END TO LEAD SQUAD AGAINST GIANTS

Collegians to Drill in Soldiers' Field.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Bowden Wyatt, All-Star end from the University of Tennessee, and Bill Osmanski, hard hitting full back from Holy Cross, will lead the college football men against the New York Giants in Soldiers' field Wednesday evening. These stars tied in the voting for the captaincy of the All-Star squad and so, for the first time since the opening game of the series with the professional champions in 1934, the collegians have co-leaders.

Wyatt and Osmanski succeed to the leadership voted by the 1938 All-Stars to Vic Markov, University of Washington tackle. Ed Krause of Notre Dame and George Sauer, Nebraska full back, were co-captains in 1934.

Mel Hein, pro league honor man for the last six years and one of the greatest centers of all time, is captain of the Giants.

Neither to Play Pro Football.

All members of the All-Star squad participated in the election. Their decision probably will mean that the coaches may not find it necessary to appoint any others to the position temporarily since Wyatt, who was elected to the starting eleven by the fans of the nation in the poll, will be in the group introduced in the ceremonies at 8:20 Wednesday evening. Osmanski is a substitute for Howie Weiss, starting full back, and since Wyatt is not a member of the unit on which Osmanski plays, one of the captains will be in the game until the third or fourth elevens take the field.

Neither of the All-Star leaders will play professional football this fall. Wyatt, one of the finest ends in the country, will be assistant coach at Mississippi State. Osmanski will assist Dr. Edward Anderson, his coach for three years at Holy Cross, at the University of Iowa, where Anderson assumes charge this fall.

All-Stars Take Short Drill.

The All-Stars practiced briefly yesterday morning in Dyche stadium. There was no contact work since Saturday's games ended this phase of training. This morning the collegians again will report for a lecture and a short drill and tonight they will practice under the lights in Soldiers' field. No one will be admitted. The squad then will return to Evanston and will not come to the loop until the day of the game.

Officials for the game, selected by Steve Owen, coach of the Giants, and the staff of All-Star coaches, and mutually agreed upon, have been notified of appointment and their acceptances received. Coach Steve Owen, with approval of Carl L. Storck, president of the National Professional league, nominated the referee and headlinesman. The college's coaches chose the umpire and field judges. The officials are:

Referee, William T. Halloran, Providence, R. I.; umpire, Fred Young, Illinois Wesleyan, sports editor of the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph; head linesman, Larry Conover, Penn State, and field judge, Jay Wyatt, University of Missouri.

Officials to Discuss Rules.

These officials, Coach Owen, Head Coach Elmer Layden and other members of his staff, and Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, will meet at luncheon in the Medinah club Wednesday noon to discuss the rules under which the game will be played. Because of the differences in the code of the National Collegiate Athletic association and the Professional league, mutual understanding is necessary. In the main the college rules will be followed.

Principal changes involve placing the goal posts on the goal line, as in professional games, rather than on the end line. The goal posts will be the offset type, with the padded posts behind the goal line and the cross bar suspended above it. The college forward pass rule will be in effect which permits passes to be thrown only from a point five yards or more behind the line of scrimmage. Pro-

BEINOR'S SPIRIT WON CHANCE TO STAR WITH IRISH

A Fighting Heart Led to All-America Honors.

The blond giant of a boy walked slowly off the practice field, holding a wet towel to a battered nose. He glanced anxiously at the two teams in the scrimmage, finally calling out in a husky voice, "Coach, you sure you have enough tackles?"

Coach Elmer Layden's answer was decisive. "Yes, and I thought I told you to go in and get that nose fixed up." As Ed Beinor shuffled away, Layden remarked to an assistant, "That boy has a spirit I like."

Thus it was that as a sophomore, this 200 pound 6 foot 2 inch Lithuanian boy first came to the attention of the Notre Dame coaching staff. He won all-American honors as a junior and retained that ranking last fall. On Wednesday night he will be an integral part of the College All-Star line in the game with the New York Giants on Soldiers' field.

Beinor Keeps Improving.

The way he drove his heft into enemy punt receivers, the shiftiness he exhibited getting into opponents' backfields, his fine offensive blocking and fighting heart made Beinor a standout in the 1937 Irish line, one of the greatest in Notre Dame history.

When the Irish developed as a high geared offensive unit last fall, breaking runners away on those sudden-death gambols, mopping up downfield after a pass interception or a punt, Beinor showed that he was more than a member of a fine defensive unit. His clean-cut blocking gave Irish backs their start on a number of game-breaking plays.

Although he was a fine swimmer, track man and basketball player at Thornton High school in Harvey, Ed contented himself with football and track in college, winning three letters in each sport. He threw the shot more than 50 feet in Lithuania last summer as a member of the Lithuanian-American track team. He also starred on the water polo team.

Football Comes First.

Beinor's first love, however, is football. And in football, he likes above all else to cover punts. His hard driving tackles jolted many punt handlers during the past three years.

The hardest man for him to stop, says Beinor, was Marshall Goldberg of Pittsburgh, who is the starting left half back on the All-Star team. "I'd catch Goldberg behind the line of scrimmage, I'd hit him high, low and in the middle but somehow it didn't do much good. A tough guy, that Goldberg," said Beinor.

His greatest football thrill was seeing Andy Pilney's play against Ohio State in 1935 when the Chicagoan led the Irish fourth quarter attack which scored three touchdowns for an 18 to 13 victory.

Ed's favorite pastime while in college was watching South Bend high school teams play football. He enjoys being with youngsters and this fall he will coach at Thornton High school.

fessional rules permit passes from any point behind the line of scrimmage.

The college rule on the kickoff, which prohibits use of a tee, and requires at least five men of the receiving team to be between their own 45 yard line and the 50 yard line at the time the ball is kicked, will be observed. Other college rules are:

Substituted players may not communicate until after one play.

Flying tackles and blocks are not permitted.

The penalty for clipping is fifteen yards. [Professional league penalty is loss of twenty-five yards from the point of the foul].

The defense cannot run with a recovered fumble unless it is recovered before it strikes the ground.

A second forward pass by the offense, generally the result of an attempted lateral, will be penalized as in the college rules.

Use of the hands in defensive line play follows the college rules.

There is one other professional rule and an adaptation of others which are important. An offside penalty in a college game always is loss of five yards. Wednesday night, if the defense is offside within its own 10 yard line, the penalty will be loss of one-half the distance to the goal. Thus, if the defense is on its own 6 yard line, instead of losing five yards, the ball will be placed on the 3 yard line.

Modify Dead Ball Rule.

The dead ball rule of the college code providing that the runner may not advance if any portion of his body except his hands or feet touches the ground, will be modified to permit the ball carrier to get up and continue if he falls in the open field when the nearest opponent is at least ten yards distant. This is administered at the discretion of the referee, and his whistle, as in any game, terminates the play.

Intermission between halves will be 20 minutes instead of 15, to provide more time for the parade of the All-Star band and presentation of most valuable National league player awards to Cecil Isbell and Mel Hein.

Petrones, Touhys Start Play Tonight for Title

The Representative Petrones, first round winners, and Touhy Demos, second round winners, will start play tonight at St. Philip stadium to decide the championship of the Windy City Softball league. The Witt Hanleys and Salernos will settle the third place position at the same time.

Giant Kansan Unsung Hero of Pro Giants

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Superior, Wis., Aug. 27.—Behind every spotlighted star there always is a group of sturdy, stolid performers who carry the load. On the New York Giants football team, scheduled to defend the prestige of the National league against the challenge of the nation's leading college players in Soldier's field, Chicago, Wednesday night, this group is led by Leland Shaffer.

Shaffer is a full back from Kansas State where he learned his football under Lynn Waldorf and Bo McMillin, men of moment in the western conference now. He joined the Giants in the fall of 1935 and has started nearly every game since. He will, in all probability, be at full back for the opening kickoff against the All-Stars in Soldiers' field Wednesday.

He's Just a Name.

Shaffer, they say, is colorless. Outside of being a farmer with vast acreage in his own name at Mineola, Kas., and knowing as much if not more about blocking and pass catching than any man in football, there is little information available about the husky, raw-boned westerner who plays week after week in the championship season with no more public mention than his name in the starting lineup.

At Pittsburgh last year, reporters pounded out columns about the Giants' spectacular 28 to 14 triumph over Johnny Blood's Pirates, but dismissed the big Kansan with the mention that "Shaffer caught two passes for touchdowns and fielded another that placed the Giants in scoring position." The pass that "placed the Giants in scoring position" was a short one Shaffer carried 40 yards to the 1 yard line.

He's a Busy Fellow.

He seldom comes dashing through the line on long jaunts or breaks up games with spectacular plays. Instead he leads ball carriers, smashing in tackles, cutting down line backers and lunging into the line to stop opponents on defense.

Six feet one inch and 200 pounds, Shaffer makes an ideal full back in the Giants' system. Coach Steve Owen would rather go into a game without his package of snuff than have to get along minus the youngster he saw grow up behind a plow out near the Owen ranch. There was no draft in the National league at the time Owen signed Shaffer. Consequently there was no contest for Shaffer's services. Owen had him signed, sealed and outfitted in a Giant uniform before other coaches could get across the prairie to him.

Swedish Girl Swims English Channel in Fourteen Hours

DOVER, England, Aug. 27 (AP).—Sally Bauer, plump Swedish girl, swam the English channel today in 14 hours and 50 minutes. She started at Cape Gris Nez, France, at 6:15 a. m. and landed near Dover at 9:05 p. m. She had hoped to beat the record of 14 hours and 31 minutes set for women by Gertrude Ederle of the United States in 1926.

The race was sanctioned by the Automobile Association of America. Finishers behind Stapp in the order mentioned were:

George Barringer of Indianapolis; Lou Durant of Glendale, Cal.; Russ Snowsberger of Indianapolis; George Robson of Alhambra, Cal.; Duke Nalon of Chicago; Lou Webb of Los Angeles; Frank Brisko of Chicago.

Attorney Wins $5,000 Award at Homewood

Morris Blank, an attorney who resides at 5540 Hyde Park boulevard, yesterday was declared winner of Saturday's $5,000 award in the patron's handicapping contest at Washington Park race track.

Morris Blank.

Blank named seven winners in the eight races on Saturday's program, missing only in the third when Viscounty, his selection, finished third.

When informed of his success yesterday by Walter Gregory, president of the Washington Park Jockey club, Blank admitted he didn't know what he would do with the money when he receives a check from Gregory today.

The $30,000 patrons' handicapping contest at the Homewood track enters its last week today with a prize of $1,000 offered to the person who selects the winners of the first seven races. If no one achieves this feat the $1,000 will be added to tomorrow's award, making a total of $2,000 at stake. If no one picks the first seven on any single day the stake would increase to $5,000 on Friday. But regardless of what might have been won during the week there will be the usual $5,000 Saturday prize given to the person who selects the largest number of winning horses.

Phils Rise Up, Give Cubs Two 1 Run Defeats

four hits in nine innings, popped out, whereupon the Cubs thought it would be advisable to pass Herschel Martin. But Marty drilled a single into right, Bolling scored, and the program was concluded.

FIRST GAME

Nicholson's bat was the chief ingredient in the one run lead picked up by the Cubs in the opening inning of the first game. Herman started it by singling with one out. A pop foul sent Galan back to the bench. Leiber walked after missing a homer which Umpire Sears first called fair and then foul when he remembered there was a screen on the fair side of the left field pole. Nicholson slapped a single to right and Herman sprinted home.

The Phils got their first inning under way on a single by Martin. Marty bunted him to second. On a third str

CITY PREPARES FOR HEARINGS TO EXPAND AIRPORT

Land Condemnation Suit Called for Sept. 5.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Every defendant in the joint condemnation suit of the city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad in connection with the enlargement of Chicago airport has been legally notified of the case, and preparations are being made to press it for hearings beginning Sept. 5. This was announced yesterday by Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel.

The case, brought in the name of the railroad, will be tried by Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel, and two assistants, Harry Possner and Alphonse Cerza. These men have fulfilled all legal requirements in serving notice of the suit on 290 individuals who own the ninety-one parcels of land that are to be condemned.

Appearance Deadline Passes.

"Those who could be found were served in person," said Hodes. "The others were served by publication. Publication began June 30 and ended July 21. The deadline for filing appearances by defendants was Aug. 7. We do not yet know how many defendants have filed appearances."

The condemnation proceeding is required to fulfill the city's bargain with the C. & W. I. In order to unite the two halves of the existing air field that now is bisected by the railroad's tracks, the city has promised to acquire a new right of way and move the tracks to it. Authority for this action was granted by the legislature at the special session in 1938.

The condemnation action was filed last April. Judge Denis J. Normoyle will hear the cases. The city attorneys are to appear Sept. 5 before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington to ask that Judge Normoyle be excused from any other work in order to devote his entire time to this matter.

Campaign in Its Fifth Year.

The existing field is bounded by 63d street and the C. & W. I. tracks along the line of 59th street, and by Cicero and Central avenues. The current campaign for its expansion is now in its fifth year. The north half of the field already has been improved, and the joining of the two halves merely awaits the removal of the railroad embankment.

Funds for purchase of the new right of way, removal of the tracks, and creation of a new track system were included in the 1939 city budget. A total of about $950,000 is available for this purpose. The construction of the new track system will begin as soon as the condemnation action is settled and should require, according to officials, not more than six months.

The expansion will enlarge the landing tract from 320 to 630 acres. Runways now ranging from 2,500 to 3,200 feet in length will be stretched to more than 5,200 feet. The advent of 60,000 pound, four-engined airliners to be placed in service by commercial air transport operators in 1941 makes the expansion essential. The present field, as experts have warned frequently, is too small for safety.

SEEK APPROVAL WEDNESDAY OF NEW CITY CODE

CompleteBook of Laws After 3 Years' Work.

The city council on Wednesday will be asked to adopt a new book of laws for Chicago which is the result of three years of work by a special research division set up by Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel. The division is headed by Harry B. Kletzky.

The last time the city's ordinance code was revised was in 1931. Since then the only record of new ordinances and amendments has been in the journal of the council proceedings issued by the city clerk after each meeting. Only a few officials have kept an accurate index of these changes. Citizens and attorneys, searching for the latest provisions, have been forced to dig through thousands of pages of the journals covering the last eight years.

Code Revised Fifteen Times.

The code has been revised fifteen times since Chicago was incorporated in 1837. Copies of only eleven of these codes are now in existence. All the old codes for Chicago and codes of many other large cities were studied in making the revision, Hodes said. The best features of each were adopted for the new code.

Laws which no longer apply in modern times have been eliminated. All ordinances which remain have been reclassified and renumbered, giving a simpler and more compact volume.

The old code had sixteen parts and covered 1,675 pages, whereas the new code will be divided into ten parts requiring 1,300 pages. The new index will have 20,000 listings, twice as many as for the 1931 ordinances. State laws and constitutional provisions on which the ordinances are based also will be included.

Employ Loose Leaf Binders.

Loose leaf binders will be used for the first time to aid in keeping the new code up to date for years to come. The city council will be asked to make provision for distributing new pages, containing new amendments, to every owner of the code every six months.

Chicago is believed to be the first large city employing this system instead of the old fashioned bound books that could not be altered once they were issued.

Upon council approval, printing of the code in its final form will be started immediately. First complete copies will be ready for sale within a month at a price to be decided by the council.

STUDENTS OF 15 COLLEGES OPPOSE GOVERNMENT AID

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—American students are opposed to government aid in financing their education, according to a report submitted today to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, by Dean Carl W. The universities used in the study were Harvard, Brown, Syracuse, Columbia, Tulane, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Minnesota, Northwestern, Iowa, Oklahoma, Michigan, Ohio State, California, and Washington. The statistics showed that 42.5 per cent of the students preferred part time employment as the best way for needy students to get financial assistance. The second major group, 32.3 per cent, favored scholarships, while 14.5 per cent considered university or private loans desirable.

DAY by DAY on the FARM — by HOMER CNEISZ

Loan Corn Damaged.

August 27, 1939.

CORN stored on farms and in warehouses as collateral for government loans is being damaged by insects in many areas throughout the southern portion of the corn belt, according to reports from farmers, grain dealers, and officials of the department of agriculture. Damage to Illinois corn has been reported as far north as Kendall county.

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration say there will be no attempt to reseal and hold for another year the corn now stored in southern Illinois and parts of Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, and Kansas, where insect injury normally is much worse than in the northern part of the corn belt.

Moth an Ancient Pest.

Much of the damage is being caused by the angoumois grain moth, one of the oldest and worst plagues of stored grain in this country. The insect gets its name from the old Angoumois province of southwestern France where it infested grain fields and bins centuries ago.

It was brought to this country from Europe in seeds by the early settlers of the colonies along the Atlantic seaboard. It has given trouble ever since, especially in the south, where it multiplies unhampered by long, cold winters. It now is found to some extent in all states.

The mature moth resembles an ordinary clothes moth. It usually has a wing spread of about half an inch, although this varies with the size of the grain in which it matures. The pest passes through the usual insect stages of egg, larva, pupa, and adult moth.

The tiny white eggs are laid on or near the grain, either in the field or in storage. They turn a reddish color before the larvæ hatch. The eggs may hatch in a week in warm weather or it may take them three or four weeks to hatch when the weather is cool.

Grub Stage Deadly.

It is in the larval or grub stage that the insect damages grain. The larva bores its way into the seed, usually near the base. It eats out the inside of the kernel. When the larva is full grown and ready to pupate it eats a channel toward the outside of the kernel, leaving only a thin film of the seed coat over the hole from which the moth will emerge later.

Then comes the pupa stage. The pupa develops in the cavity inside the kernel that was eaten out by the larva. There it changes to an adult moth. The moth pushes off the thin cap or film of seed coat left over the channel eaten by the larva and flies away to start the life cycle over again.

Life Cycle Time Varies.

The time required for the insect to complete its life cycle depends primarily on the temperature. It sometimes completes the cycle in four weeks in warm weather. When the weather is cold the larvæ may lie dormant inside the kernels of grain for five or six months.

Damage from the insect is confined chiefly to wheat and corn, although other grains may be attacked, either in the field or in storage bins. Most of the damage to corn is while it is in storage.

TAXES IN NATION UP 79 PER CENT IN 6 YEAR PERIOD

1938 Load Set at $114 Per Capita.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 [Special].—The tax load imposed by federal, state, and local governments in the United States in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1938, was 79.6 per cent heavier than in the corresponding 1932 period, the treasury announced today.

The figures were part of the first over all summary of federal, state, and local fiscal operations ever presented by the federal government in such comprehensive form. The treasury department prepared and released the data in its August bulletin.

Total $114 Per Capita.

It estimated that total federal, state, and local tax collections in the 1938 fiscal year amounted to $14,811,000,000. This would be $114.09 per capita, based on estimated Jan. 1, 1938, population of 129,818,000. The sum is equivalent to 21.8 per cent of the average of the estimated national income for the calendar years 1937 and 1938, the treasury said.

The most important tax in the United States, said the treasury, is the property tax, which yielded $4,745,000,000 in the 1938 fiscal period.

The treasury summarized the 1938 governmental balance sheet as follows:

"During the fiscal year 1938, combined federal and estimated state and local expenditures for general government, exclusive of debt retirement, amounted to $17,470,000,000.

Billion for Social Security.

"Of this total $1,005,000,000 consisted of net additions to social security reserves. The federal government accounted for $7,626,000,000, state governments for $4,223,000,000 and local governments for $5,621,000,000 of expenditures.

"Inclusive of debt retirement, total general governmental disbursements aggregated $18,199,000,000.

"To pay for all general governmental disbursements, taxes are estimated to have furnished $14,811,000,000, nontax revenues $1,181,000,000, borrowings $1,869,000,000 and reductions in general fund balances $338,000,000.

Federal Share 6.2 Billions.

"Of the total $15,992,000,000 revenue, the federal government collected $6,242,000,000, the states collected $4,202,000,000, and local governments $5,548,000,000."

[These figures take no account of the huge increase in the federal debt under the Roosevelt administration.]

After property taxes, taxes on corporate income and corporate privileges and taxes on personal income were the most important listed by the treasury.

"The corporation taxes, which included the net income, the capital stock, and other corporate franchise taxes, produced $1,762,000,000," the treasury reported. "The individual income tax yielded $1,562,000,000. Automotive taxes, the liquor-tobacco group and taxes on pay rolls each produced close to $1,500,000,000.

Leading Sources Cited.

"For the federal government, the three most important sources of current revenue were the taxes on corporation income and privilege, on individual income, and on liquor and tobacco. Collections in 1938 from each of these three sources exceeded a billion dollars."

For state governments, the automotive taxes were by far the most important, the bulletin said. "In 1938 this group, including motor fuel taxes, motor vehicle registration fees, and drivers' licenses [excluding the personal property taxes on automobiles] yielded a total of $1,162,000,000," the treasury said. "Next in importance was the sales and other excise group, which produced $717,000,000."

British Gold Exceeds Nazis' by Big Margin

As in 1914 England and her allies again today have a strong advantage in ownership of the world's basic metal—gold.

England has $2,200,000,000 in gold. France has $2,547,000,000. This is far in excess of the amount held by the axis powers. Italy has $193,000,000 in gold and Germany only $94,000,000. Spain holds $525,000,000. More than half the monetary gold of the world is in the United States which holds 16½ billions.

England Holds Advantage.

The advantage of England and her allies is more favorable now than it was in 1914. England and France then had less gold than they have now, while Germany had more. In 1914 Germany did not have Italy on her side, but she had Austria-Hungary. And Austria-Hungary in 1914 had more gold than Italy has now.

The United States had the largest amount of gold in 1914 of all the nations, although its total did not compare with today's huge store. In 1914 the United States' gold supply amounted to $1,904,700,000.

France Heads Gold List.

The following table gives the gold stocks of leading nations of the world as of June 30, 1939, compared with Jan. 1, 1914:

| | 1939. | 1914. |
|---|---|---|
| France | $2,574,000,000 | $1,200,000,000 |
| Great Britain | 2,200,000,000 | 830,100,000 |
| Netherlands | 800,000,000 | 60,900,000 |
| Switzerland | 598,000,000 | 32,800,000 |

NASH DEALERS WILL MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago will be a key city in the automobile industry for two days this week with the opening this morning of the annual convention of the Nash motors division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation. About 2,800 Nash dealers, distributors, salesmen, and officials from all parts of the nation will attend.

Last year's meeting was held in Detroit, the nation's motor capital, but officials of Nash decided that they could do a better job in Chicago because of this city's central location and its proximity to the Nash factories in Kenosha.

Among the Nash officials who will attend the meeting will be C. W. Nash, founder of the company and one of the veterans of the industry.

The Nash dealers will get their first view of the 1940 models, which will not be shown to the public until late in September. Dealers and salesmen are to drive away more than 2,600 cars from the Kenosha plant for public exhibition later. Fronts of the cars and other features are to be covered by sheets.

C. I. O. SIGNS NEW CONTRACT WITH WARNER GEAR CO.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 27 (AP).—Ed Hall, organizer for the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, announced tonight a new contract had been signed with the Borg-Warner corporation for the Warner Gear company here, where a strike has been in progress, and that the union would recommend its acceptance by the workers.

Hall said the workers would meet tomorrow to vote on acceptance of the agreement, terms of which he did not disclose. The week old strike at the gear company, a subsidiary of the Borg-Warner corporation, started from a demand by the union that it be allowed to dictate the basis of pay for nonproduction workers.

G. A. Shallberg of Chicago, vice president of Borg-Warner, and Mayor I. J. Wilson of Muncie sat in at the conference with union representatives today at which the agreement was reached.

FREEZE FOREIGN SECURITIES OF BRITISH CITIZENS

Begin Mobilization of Vast Resources.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP). — Great Britain tonight began mobilizing the vast foreign security investments of her nationals for possible war needs.

Tonight's action was taken under the emergency powers bill enacted last Thursday by a special session of parliament.

The order required holders of marketable foreign securities to obtain permission of the British treasury before disposing of them.

Must File Return.

It applies to securities "of which the principal interest or dividends are payable in the currencies of the United States, Canada, Argentina, Belgium, France, The Netherlands, the Dutch East Indies, Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland."

The security owners also were directed to make a return to the Bank of England of their holdings within one month.

The financial community interpreted the action as a precautionary step aimed at preparing for an emergency in which the government would take over such foreign investments for itself.

Action Freezes Ownership.

[Observers said the intent of the order is to clear the way for the treasury to use British investments outside the empire as the basis for credits for purchases abroad. The order freezes these securities in British hands so that they will be available if wanted. Not only is sale banned unless the treasury grants permission, but also any transaction that involves a charge on such securities. This means they cannot be used as collateral for foreign loans.]

In the world war the British government acquired the dollar securities of her nationals in exchange for treasury notes.

Handled by Morgan Bank.

These notes yielded 2 per cent, entitling the holder to buy war loan securities at par. The British government at that time transferred the dollar securities to J. P. Morgan & Co. as banking agent for such gradual liquidation as might be required to make foreign purchases of war supplies. Until the securities were sold the original British owners received the income plus a 1 per cent bonus for placing them at the government's disposal.

There has been no indication of whether this precise procedure would be followed again.

Informed sources have suggested that the marketable British owned investments in the United States alone approach $1,000,000,000.

GEARED FOR WAR

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The British government last week looked to its financial and economic defenses as the entire country was being placed on a 100 per cent war footing. Protective measures to safeguard Britain's economic structure came fast on the heels of the Russo-German deal. An atmosphere reminiscent of 1914 invaded the markets as tension became more severe.

Outstanding developments were the sudden withdrawal of support from the pound coupled with a sharp break in the sterling-dollar rate; the decision to boost the bank rate to 4 per cent after it had held at 2 per cent for the last seven years, and the fixing of minimum prices for dealings in British government securities as was done during the Munich crisis last September.

Seeks to Keep Gold.

The week's events indicate that Britain has decided to abandon the cheap money policy to discourage all borrowing except for vital requirements such as armaments. The aim is to check speculation against the pound and stop the outflow of gold to America to conserve the country's resources.

Although classed as emergency measures, market circles believe these developments mark the end of operations for the exchange control fund, created to iron out foreign exchange fluctuations.

The control fund has lost substantial quantities of gold recently in an effort to hold the pound-dollar rate at $4.68⅛. When the peg suddenly was withdrawn on Friday the pound shot down to as low as $4.38 before rallying slightly.

Meanwhile British economists seeking to analyze prospects in event of war find comfort in England's strong financial position and the fact that the government has built up gold stores in the United States, Canada, and South Africa which would make it unnecessary to ship metal during the early stages of hostilities. Regardless of neutrality legislation, it is suggested that Britain and France could count on substantial assistance from America.

Discussing this aspect of the situation, the Financial News last week stressed the possibilities of using Canada as a clearing house to get money and arms from the United States.

Although the United States neutrality act prohibits the export of arms once a state of war is recognized by the President, this recognition would be delayed, the paper says. "Anyway," the publication adds, "it is an open secret that many American armaments manufacturers now have factories in Canada."

Britain as a war debt defaulter is banned from raising long term loans in the United States under the Johnson act. Here again, however, the Financial News indicates that Canada may prove invaluable to Britain, "for there seems to be nothing to prevent loans to Canada, which would of course be free to dispose of the proceeds."

Foreigners Cut Holdings.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—The treasury disclosed today that foreigners reduced their holdings of American securities by $2,708,000 in May.

Except for heavy buying in April, foreigners generally have been liquidating so far this year. For the first five months the net liquidation totaled $1,686,000.

During May, the latest month for which figures are available because of the treasury's policy of waiting three months before publishing international monetary statistics, heavy sellers of American securities were England, Canada, and the far east. Substantial buyers were France, Switzerland, and The Netherlands.

Most Proceeds Banked.

The report indicated that the proceeds of the securities sales went mostly into bank deposits on this side of the ocean and, considering all kinds of capital movement, foreigners added $47,076,000 to their liquid resources here.

Since the first of the year, foreigners have sent $791,544,000 of capital here for investment or safekeeping, continuing a trend which since the beginning of 1935 has brought a total of $4,570,769,000 worth of foreign funds to this country.

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Special].—The liner President Roosevelt departed from Southampton today carrying 4,250,000 pounds sterling worth of gold [the pound is worth about $4.40]. Including this shipment, a total of 20,750,000 pounds sterling worth of gold has left Southampton for America and Canada within the last forty-eight hours.

TERMINAL BONDS.

I would appreciate any comments on Cincinnati Union Terminal first 3½s of 1971.—H. N.

Answer: Terminal bonds ordinarily enjoy a sound rating, even when there is some question concerning the other funded indebtedness of those railroads which guarantee the terminal issues. A union terminal in a major city is essential property to the roads which own and use it.

Cincinnati Union Terminal bond issues are secured by a direct lien on all property of the company, which operates terminal facilities in Cincinnati. Seven railroads use this terminal and they guarantee principal, interest, and sinking fund payments on the bonds. While the company itself does not have a successful operating record, the importance of the property to these roads gives the bond issues a sound rating.

TENNESSEE SALE.

I should like to know why a common stock holder of Commonwealth and Southern should not share in the money recently received from the government for sale of properties in Tennessee. Is it not money belonging to the whole corporation?—C. A.

Answer: Not all the money paid by governmental agencies for certain properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company, of which Commonwealth and Southern owned nearly all the common stock, is going to Commonwealth and Southern even indirectly. The bondholders and preferred stock holders of Tennessee Electric are getting the larger part of this purchase price.

After payment in full to holders of these securities about $6,127,219 out of the original $78,000,000 received from the sales is available to Tennessee Electric common stock holders. Commonwealth and Southern's share in this sum, on the basis of the Tennessee Electric common shares that it held, is $6,087,728.

Procedure for the sale, however, was handled by creation of Tennessee Utilities corporation. Commonwealth and Southern turned its Tennessee Electric common stock over to Tennessee Utilities. It is this company, entirely owned by Commonwealth and Southern, which received the cash from the transaction.

Tennessee Utilities has also received certain former properties of Tennessee Electric not sold to the government. It will operate these facilities. Thus no money from the sale thus far has been received directly by Commonwealth and Southern.

New York, Aug. 27.—The stock market showed rallying power last week in the face of the worst European crisis in three years. Prices in the general list at the end of the week were up from fractions to a bit more than a point as compared with the preceding Saturday.

Traders ignored news which portrayed the continuing betterment in the domestic business situation and concentrated on the dispatches from Europe. At the end of the week the market reflected the feeling of traders that there was a chance that the German-Polish crisis would be settled with words rather than guns.

Watching the market blow hot and cold as the chances turned toward peace or war, analysts concluded that most of the sessions were professional affairs. They cited the comparatively small volume of trading and the orderly markets to support their contentions.

See Market on Solid Ground.

Prices, it was noted, did not break as badly as they did during the crisis last September which led up to the Munich settlement. Many stock brokers here are agreed that the market for securities is in good condition to weather a shock.

Close observers say there are no pools and that few holders are obliged or will be obliged to sell their holdings. One broker went so far as to predict that if war should come the reaction would wear itself out in three hours.

Prices through the week had a range of a bit more than eight points. Stocks closed lower in three of the full sessions and advanced in the other two.

Steel Shares Rally.

Steel shares came back from their lows of the week to show gains running to more than a point in both United States Steel and Bethlehem. Some of the volatile stocks had more substantial gains.

All through the week the market kept in step with the war news. Monday the list dropped 1 to 3 points as traders veered to the opinion Reichsfuehrer Hitler had taken a position from which he could not recede without loss of face. Tuesday the market stiffened on peace hopes. Wednesday and Thursday prices sold off as the outlook again darkened.

On Friday the market rose 1 to 3 points and the strength carried over into Saturday's short session.

JAPANESE SEEK TO SECURE STEEL IN THIS COUNTRY

Want to Buy 500,000 Tons on Seaboard.

The magazine Steel reported yesterday that Japan is seeking to buy 500,000 tons of American steel from Atlantic seaboard interests. The purpose of the prospective purchase was not disclosed.

Metal circles recalled, however, that Japan reëntered the American copper market last week and bought 1,500 tons of the red metal in one day. Nations embroiled in the European crisis were also large copper buyers.

The survey said the composite scrap steel price advanced 8 cents last week to the highest level since mid-October, 1937, at $15.50 per ton.

Production failed to advance for the first time since early July, the magazine reported. The rate held steady at 63.5 per cent of capacity.

Bookings in some instances are running short of production, but backlogs are sufficient to keep mill activity at its present level, Steel said.
